

ANP staff writer wins MPA award

For the second consecutive year, Associated Newspapers' staff reporter Carrie Young has been selected as one of Michigan's leading investigative reporters.

Miss Young, 23, of Canton Township as honored this week when the Michigan Press Association of Lansing picked her series of stories on Wayne County's senior citizens as their First Place Award winner for "Enterprise Stories."

Enterprise Stories are those which require extra initiative, extensive research and investigation, usually relying on the tenacity of the reporter to pull all loose ends together.

ANP published Miss Young's 4-month series from January through April. The news articles detailed the bureaucratic roadblocks elderly persons confront daily in taking advantage of government services designed for them.

Using numerous examples, she graphically illustrated how some services for the aged — homecare programs, the hot lunch program administered by the county, and transportation for the elderly — have become bogged down in red tape.

Her articles prompted reassessment of senior programs at all levels of government affecting Western Wayne County.

Miss Young, the Associated Newspapers' Canton Township reporter joined ANP in 1977.

Beginning as a stringer for these papers, her ambition and drive soon carried her onto the staff of the Canton Eagle in a part-time position.

In 1978 Miss Young was promoted to staff writer and has been assigned to the Canton Township area since that time.

In announcing Miss Young's first place award, David J. Willett, publisher of Associated, said: "Carrie has devoted her mind and spirit to the profession of journalism. We are proud to claim her as our own."

Carrie summed up her feelings on the series: "I found that some of the most deserving seniors were denied services for some of the most ridiculous reasons. Some went hungry while the state complained it had carry-over dollars from the last fiscal year."

"Even today," she said, "the bureaucracy is so overwhelming that politicians are at a loss on how to effect change."

Last year, Miss Young placed second in the state, in the Enterprise Story category, for her series on illegal building procedures in Canton Township.

In addition to the award garnered by Miss Young, Associated Newspapers captured a first place award in the category of Best Advertising Campaign.

keylined by Gail Jorgensen for the Aqua Star Pool-Spas Company of Westland.

The advertising campaign consisted of several in-paper two color ads culminating in a four page tab size insert which provided the reader with Aqua Star's full range of pool-spa equipment through the extensive use of photography produced by Lothar Koneitzko and Tom Greenwood.

There were more than 700 entries in various categories in the annual MPA contest submitted by 70 news weeklies and 31 daily papers from across the state. The contest was judged by representatives of the Wisconsin Press Association.

To end flooding

County begins cleaning Sloss-Ganong Drain

Cleanup begins

The first phase of cleaning out the Sloss-Ganong Drain, which recently inundated the Wick-Harrison roads area of Romulus, closing off access to Detroit Metropolitan Airport, got underway last week, under the watchful eye of Wayne County Commissioner Thomas Presnell (D-21st District). Hundreds of trees and bushes, some 10 feet tall, were removed before heavy equipment was brought in to deepen and widen the ditch. Robert Burroughs wields a chain saw as the "assault" on the brush began. Watching were Mike Bink (from left), civil engineer for the Wayne County Drain Commission; Bob Jarrett, chief engineer; Presnell and Grady Williams, crew foreman.

"It's like slashing your way across the Yucatan Peninsula," commented Wayne County Commissioner Thomas Presnell of Westland, while observing drain commission crews "brushing" the Sloss-Ganong Drain in an attempt to halt future flooding like that closed down the Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus recently.

"Brushing," according to Charles N. Youngblood, county drain commissioner, "is the first step before we can move in heavier equipment to start deepening and widening the drains. 'Brushing' in this case means chopping down trees that have been plugging up the drain for years, and wading through belt-high muck to whack away at undergrowth tall enough to hide a van."

"Despite their optimism," Presnell said, "I don't see how they can complete the job in a month, let alone by the end of September. It's just too much to do in the estimated one week they anticipated it would take."

Both Thomas O'Rourke, managing director of the County Road Commission, and Youngblood promised Presnell, chairman of the county's Public Works Committee, deepened or widened since the CCC days of President Roosevelt."

Youngblood estimates the cost of cleaning the 1,500 feet will be $6,000 with three years of state-allocated funds, amounting to $2,400, being applied to the charges, and the balance, $3,600, to be paid from the Romulus general fund. The 1,900-foot section will be paid with Road Commission funds.

Youngblood added: "County ditches may not be deepened or widened beyond specifications established years ago which, at that time, were considered adequate to contain runoff waters in the area. Expressways and industrial development with huge paved areas were obviously not part of the original consideration."

Schools lose 100 students

Some 100 students, who for some reason or other have not shown up for the starting of school, could cost Romulus Community Schools as much as $250,000 in state aid.

School Supt. James M. Garfield has issued a plea to all parents to bring in their children or to notify the appropriate school of their child's status — vacation, illness or other — before Friday.

"Students coming in after the Sept. 28 date have the same effect as not coming in at all. We just lose the money," he stressed.

Garfield said the loss in revenues "would have a devastating effect on the district's operating budget."

Friday is the fourth Friday after Labor Day, the day that the official student head count is taken and upon which the local school district's state aid funding is based. The count also is used to figure the allocation of other state and federal money.

The superintendent also asked that neighbors notify the school, if they know of a family with children which may be out of town.

Garfield asked for the cooperation of everyone who could assist in getting any of the 100 or so absent pupils to school by Friday.

'I don't see how they can complete the job in a month...'

Rejection recommended

Council ponders AFSCME contract

The packet is just as bulky, the contents are just as important, but only three men, all foremen in the Romulus Department of Public Works, are affected by on-going wage negotiations between the city and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME).

The council last night was expected to consider a recommendation to reject a proposed 2-year contract worked out by the city's negotiating team of Mayor William Oakley, Charles N. Lowther, city attorney, and Sandra J. Spjut, personnel director.

The committee supported the rejection because it feels the city's wage offers are more than appropriate; the city's offer is in line with its economic situation; and the city foresees a possible nationwide downturn in the economy, which could harm an inflationary contract.

"Agreement has been reached on all non-economic items and several economic items, however, the committee has made its last offer and the union its final demand, and there is still a difference which the union contends it will not negotiate," the committee stated in its report to the council.

Foremost in issues splitting the city and AFSCME is salary increases. The city is offering a 3 percent hike, while the union wants 3½ percent, plus a 10 cents per hour wage adjustment on Jan. 1, 1980, and a 15 cents per hour cost of living adjustment.

Also dividing the two parties is a dental plan. The city wants to give a master medical plan the first year, followed by a Delta Dental Plan the second year. AFSCME wants the dental plan the first year.

The committee also informed council that should it turn down the union's final position, the matter will go to mediation.

'Five-finger discounting' climbs by 50 percent

One out of every 12 shoppers is fighting double digit inflation with the five-finger discount.

The National Retail Merchants Association reports that out of 500 shoppers kept under surveillance in a large metropolitan department store 42 had shoplifted by the end of the day.

According to the FBI Uniform Crime Report, a total of 615,781 persons were apprehended for shoplifting in 1977. However, department store security firms estimate that no more than one in 20 shoplifters is ever caught and less than one half of those caught are prosecuted.

A spokesman for Americans United to Rediscover America (AURA) a nationwide voluntary organization dedicated to rediscovery of the traditional American values of honesty, integrity and thus leading to crime prevention, said that shoplifting is a major contributor to rising prices and inflation.

"For every $10 theft enough additional merchandise must be sold to pay that $10 out of profits before the normal cycle can be resumed," he said. "If a store makes a five per cent profit on that $10 item, for example, the merchant must sell $200 worth of merchandise. The additional cost is passed along to the honest customer who pays for the dishonesty of others."

The U.S. Department of Commerce says shoplifting is one of the fastest growing crimes in the nation. Since 1972, it has increased 50 percent. Forbes magazine estimates that it's now increasing at a compound rate of 15 percent a year.

Last year, retailers lost $7.2 billion to shoplifters. But that's just the tip of the iceberg, officials note.

The Commerce Department says that crime costs American business over $30 billion a year. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which included white collar crime by employees and executives of businesses, puts the price tag at $40 billion yearly.

Inventory shrinkage, a polite term for stealing from one's employer, is estimated at more than $6 billion a year by the Commerce Department. For every dollar's worth of merchandise that a shoplifter grabs, a store employee will take three. Much of what is taken seldom gets into statistics, but the penny ante things total in the billions of dollars.

Thefts committed by employees, a Commerce report says, are behind at least 60 percent of all crime-related losses. Thirty percent of all business failures are attributed to dishonesty by employees.

Security World magazine adds another alarming note by saying that as many as 80 percent of any company's hired help will commit dishonest acts unless management deters them.

Because shoplifting and stealing from employers is a non-violent crime, the AURA spokesman said, it does not create urgency on the part of the public and police to prosecute.

"It's important to keep in mind that shoplifting costs are passed on in the form of higher prices for goods," AURA said. "If Americans do nothing about shoplifting and just accept higher prices as part of inflation, it will affect their lifestyle and individual freedom. A social climate where stealing is an accepted part of life will lead to personal restrictions and inconvenience."

AURA suggest that individuals can take positive action to reduce shoplifting:

- (1) Speak out when someone talks about their great bargain that was stolen.
- (2) Teach children that shoplifting is a crime, not a game.
- (3) Take an active interest; tell store personnel if something suspicious is sighted.
- (4) If you own a business, adopt codes of ethics for employees; make workers feel a real part of the business; use security equipment to take away temptation; and buy only from known vendors; unknown purveyors may be offering stolen goods.

Individuals and businesses who want additional details on how they can do something to cut the costs of shoplifting may write to Americans United to Rediscover America (AURA), Suite 625, 500 Skokie Blvd., Northbrook, Ill. 60053.

County meets payroll, others doubtful

Wayne County managed its Sept. 21 payroll as scheduled, but for the second time this month the pay period was met only through emergency methods and fortunate timing. Wages on time after mid-October still are questionable.

Paychecks received on Sept. 21 by about half the county work force were assured only after a court decision earlier in the week, which freed $5.4 million impounded by the State Municipal Finance Commission.

The two previous payrolls were covered at the last minute with $5.2 million released by the State Treasury for the County's quarterly revenue sharing payment due from State income taxes.

In its decision on Sept. 17 ordering the $5.4 million released, the Court of Appeals said impoundment by the Finance Commission to be "inconsistent with the county's statutory right." The court also said the provision is beyond the enforcement powers of the finance commission.

The money involved is the county's share of proceeds in the delinquent tax revolving fund established by the Board of Commissioners to ease cash flow problems and to facilitate budget planning in local communities. The Finance Commission has denied the county permission to borrow $22 million in tax anticipation notes, a companion part of the county lawsuit that the appellate court did not review.

County Corporation Counsel George Cross, who argued the case, said: "The county has been vindicated. The decision justifies our action just as we knew it would, and it proves our opinion that the Finance Commission acted illegally in holding up funds the county justly deserves."

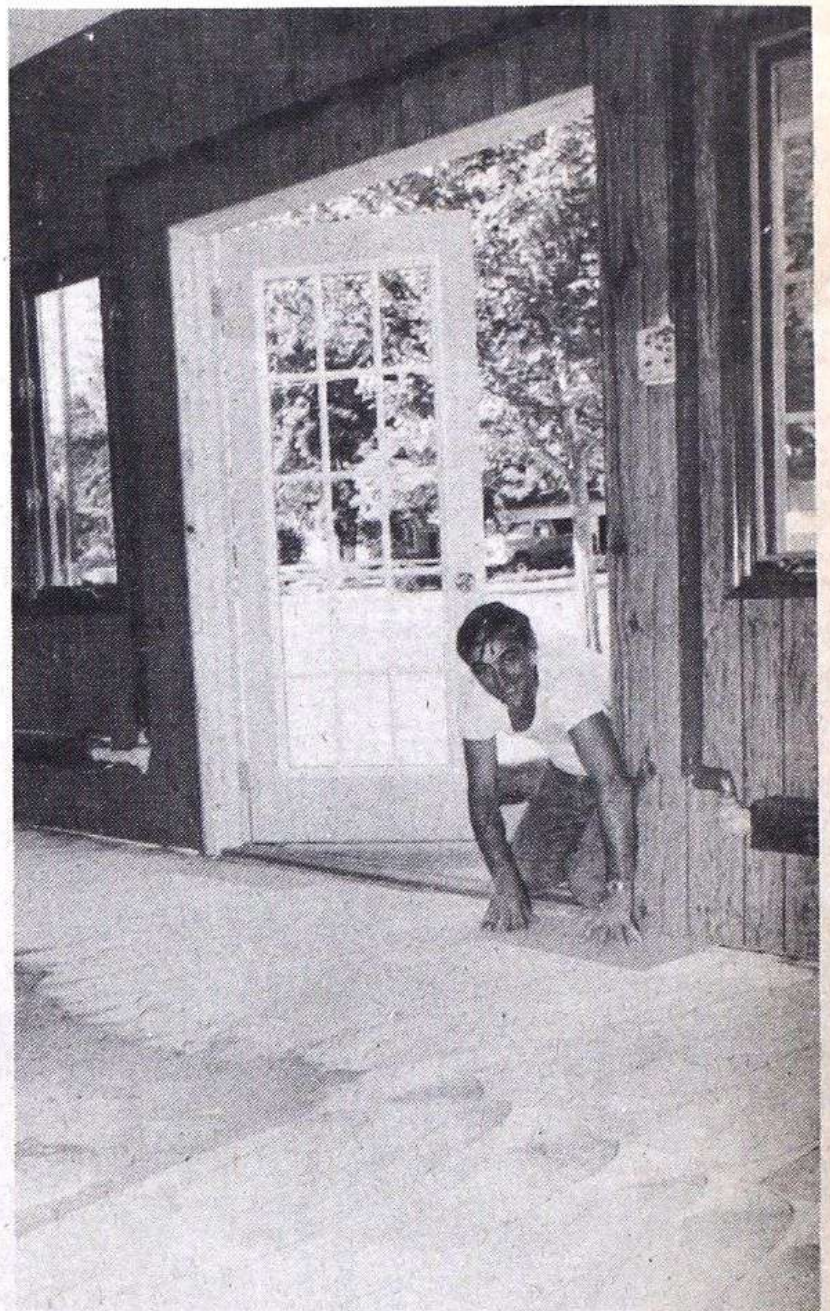

Board Chairman Richard Manning added: "The Finance Commission acted hastily and wrongly, and it apparently is a symptom of the times. It seems that at our worst moment, everybody wants to treat us punitively rather than helpfully. "Our projected deficit, despite what others say, is definitely no more than $18.2 million. We are only experiencing a cash flow problem as does every business occasionally, and that is very far from the bankruptcy imagined by many people who do not understand the situation."

"The $18.2 million we need is trivial compared to the income we have waiting just around the corner besides our total existing assets. We have tremendous assets to cover our debts and we have tremendous borrowing power, but we are being denied this privilege because of a combination of strangling political interest and plain misunderstanding."

Manning's revenue-around-the-corner mention was reference to Dec. 1, the beginning of another fiscal year when new tax revenue will become available.

"At this time, we calculate only about six weeks that we must squeeze through to avoid payless paydays or layoffs," he said.

He noted that the Commissioners at their next Ways and Means Committee meeting tomorrow will receive 1979-80 budget estimate from the Board of Auditors, the beginning of planning for the new fiscal year.

Court's '80 budget jumps to $369,918

It will cost the residents of Romulus an estimated $369,918 to operate 34th District Court for the 1979-1980 fiscal year.

That was the amount turned in by James B. Stone, presiding judge, to the council April 4, and which was scheduled to be considered last night.

The proposed new budget figure is nearly $25,000 higher than last year, with more than half of the increase going to pay higher costs for hospitalization insurance.

Of the total, $243,132 is earmarked for the wages and salaries of the 19 personnel required to run the district court.

Judge Stone in his report stated that wage and salary boosts did not exceed the federal guidelines of 7 percent, recommended by the Carter administration.

"While general inflation and increasing work volume continue to add to the operating expense of the court, increased activities on our two freeways are resulting in additional revenue at a greater rate than the anticipated budgetary requirements," Judge Stone said.

He estimated that the court's income for the coming fiscal year would be $405,000 as compared with $365,000 last year.

The next few weeks could very well decide the fate of the controversial "super sewer" depending upon whether 17 communities in Oakland and Wayne counties choose to participate.

Thursday officials from the 17 communities, three in Oakland and 14 in Wayne, heard Duane Egeland, director of engineering for the Wayne County Department of Public Works, outline the plan chosen by the federal government from about 10 available.

Actually, Egeland gave the findings of an Environmental Impact Study done by consultants for the Environmental Protection Agency.

He said the study stipulated that for communities to be eligible for the federal funding to build super sewer, they must adopt the plan selected by the federal government.

As now envisioned, the overall cost of the super sewer, running from Commerce Township in Oakland County to Brownstown Township in Wayne County is pegged at some $217,000,000. Of the total, 80 percent would be paid for by federal and state funding, with the remaining 20 percent to be picked up by participating communities.

According to George Wilhelmi, consulting engineer with Morris Levine & Associates of Detroit, who was hired by Van Buren Township, the plan chosen by the federal government is a compromise between Plan A and Plan D.

Plan A would run all the way from Oakland County to Brownstown, while Plan D would only go from Canton Township to Brownstown, Wilhelmi explained.

He called the stipulation of having to adopt the plan to qualify for federal funding "a hammer" over the participating communities.

At Brownstown, the sewage treatment plant for super sewer would be built that would handle up to 32,000,000 gallons of sewage per day.

With the issue hanging in the balance, officials of the 17 communities through which super sewer would run also got another rude awakening. Instead of paying for designs costs of super sewer commensurate with the capacity they would use by bond drives, they were told they must pay in cash.

With interest rates for bond issues now higher than the 8 percent rate allowed by the state, the communities were told they could pay the county DPW under a contractual agreement of two years duration.

Since two years ago, Van Buren's design costs for super sewer have gone from about $175,000 to nearly $300,000, Wilhelmi said. Each participating community would pay a proportional share depending upon its capacity in the new huge interceptor.

Wilhelmi called efforts by the county, state and federal governments one of "divide and conquer", but praised the participating communities for sticking together, as well as they have over the last two years.

Wilhelmi said Plan D chosen by the federal government exemplifies the Carter administration's commitment to Detroit to do nothing that would promote further exodus from the Motor City.

Plan D, the compromise, also calls for the design of the sewer portion from Sumpter Township and/or Canton Township south, while at the same time noting the needs of the northern sections served by super sewer, the engineer said.

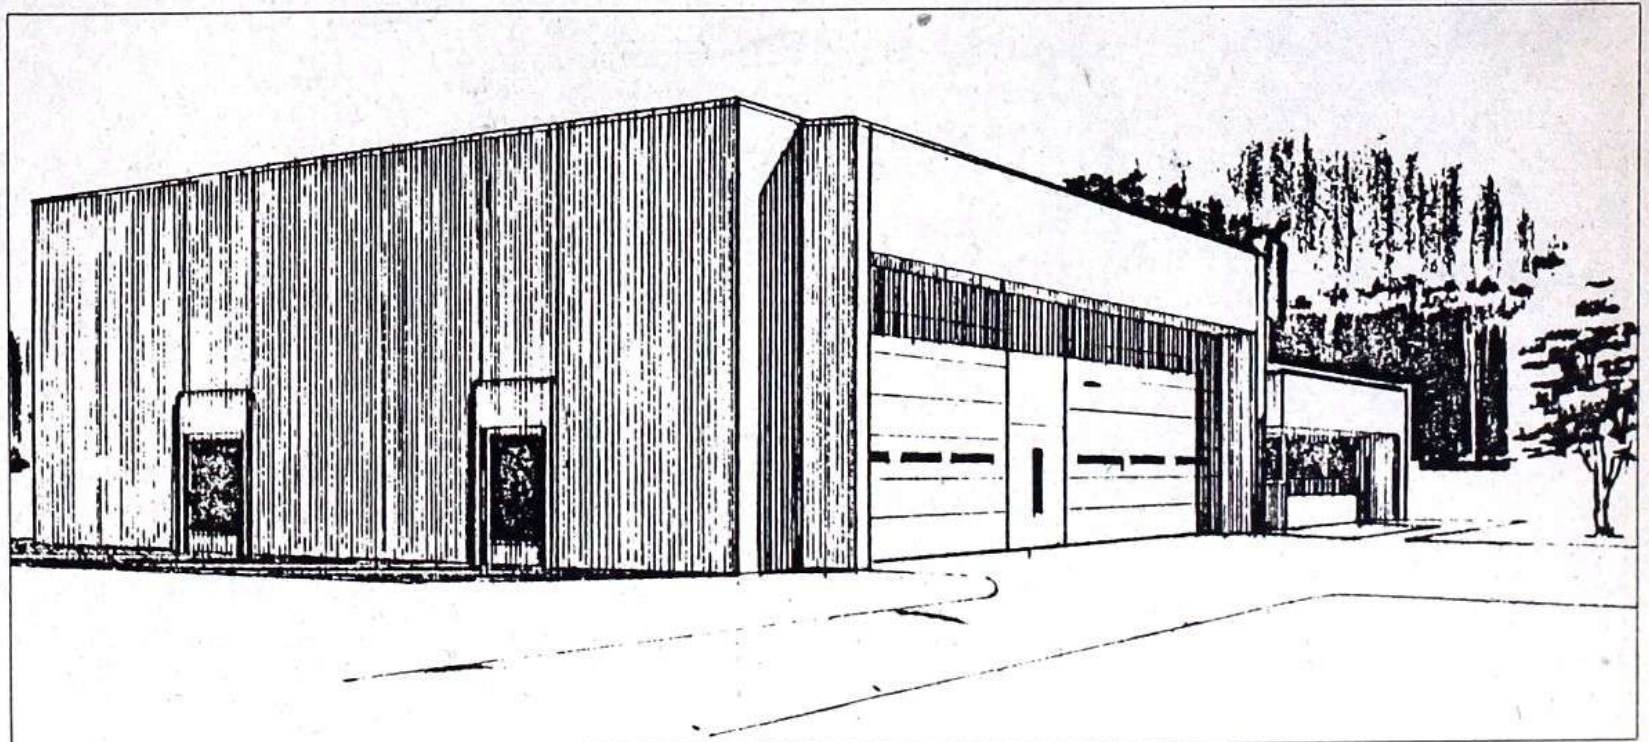

He said the difference between the plan of two years ago and now is that the current one permits participating communities to design into the southern portion of the super sewer a large enough interceptor to later handle the northern sections.

Artist's sketch shows a new fire station, the fifth for Romulus, which will be inaugurated at a special groundbreaking ceremony at 11 a.m. Friday on Northline Road, a quarter mile east of Huron River Drive. Following the brief ceremony, a luncheon will be held at the Hilton Airport Inn, 31500 Wick Road, at 12 noon. Built with a $90,000 community development block grant and money from the sale of the old courthouse and fire station on Eureka, the 2,700-square foot building will service the southwest section of the city and is destined to replace Fire Station No. 1 next to the recreation department. The station will be manned by a 13-member volunteer crew and equipped with a new front line pumper, rescue van and foam rig. The station is similar to the new Fire Station No. 4; both were designed by architect Ed Laupmanis.

4 persons die in fiery crash

Steven Westray, 24, of Dearborn Heights, has been charged in 18th District Court with four counts of manslaughter and leaving the scene of a fatal accident, following a fiery crash Friday night in Westland that left four persons dead.

The man was arraigned on the charges in the Westland court Monday and faces the preliminary examination, to determine if he will be bound over for Circuit Court trial, on Monday. He was released on $25,000 bond, according to Westland police.

The victims, who had been inside an orange Honda subcompact car, apparently stalled in the road, were David Henning, 21, and his wife Yvette, 18, of Dearborn, Pamela Jane Schlegel, 17, of Dearborn, and Robert Elie, 28, of Inkster. Police said the men were identified by fingerprints, and identification belonging to Mrs. Henning was found in the car. Miss Schlegel's identity was determined based on information that she was with the other three that evening, police said. All four were badly burned, making visual identification impossible.

Westland police officers have interviewed several witnesses to the crash, including other drivers on the road at 10:10 p.m. Friday who saw the accident.

They determined that the car containing the four had stopped in the right northbound lane on Middlebelt, just north of Powers (between Van Born and Annapolis roads) in Westland. Middlebelt is a 5-lane road in that area. Witnesses told police that the car had its emergency flashers on, said Westland Police Officer Peter Brokas.

All four persons were still in the car, police said, indicating that perhaps the car stalled, and they were trying to get it started.

A second, full-sized car in that same lane reportedly came up and hit the rear of the Honda, pushing it some 75 feet ahead, evidenced by skid marks on the road. The small car burst into flames — some witnesses say it exploded — and was eventually pushed to the side of the road and flipped over the curb, while

Aftermath

The mangled pile of metal and wheels used to be a car, and it had four persons sitting in it. But now the four are dead, and the car hardly bears any resemblance to a vehicle. The subcompact car was hit from behind as it sat, apparently stalled, on Middlebelt Road Friday night.—ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

Metric Board will meet in metro area

From its headquarters in Washington, D.C., the United States Metric Board will travel 830 kilometers to hold a public forum and meeting in the metropolitan area Oct. 18-19.

The 17-member board will conduct a public forum at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 18 at the Dearborn Inn. Following scheduled presentations by area representatives, the public is invited to offer comment on the increasing use of the metric system, and to join in a general question and answer period.

"The Detroit metro area is a center for small and large business and industry, and is well known for its many fine educational, medical and cultural institutions. Southeastern Michigan enjoys a wide diversity of people, and the board is interested in gathering opinions from a cross-section of the American public," said board chairman Louis Polk.

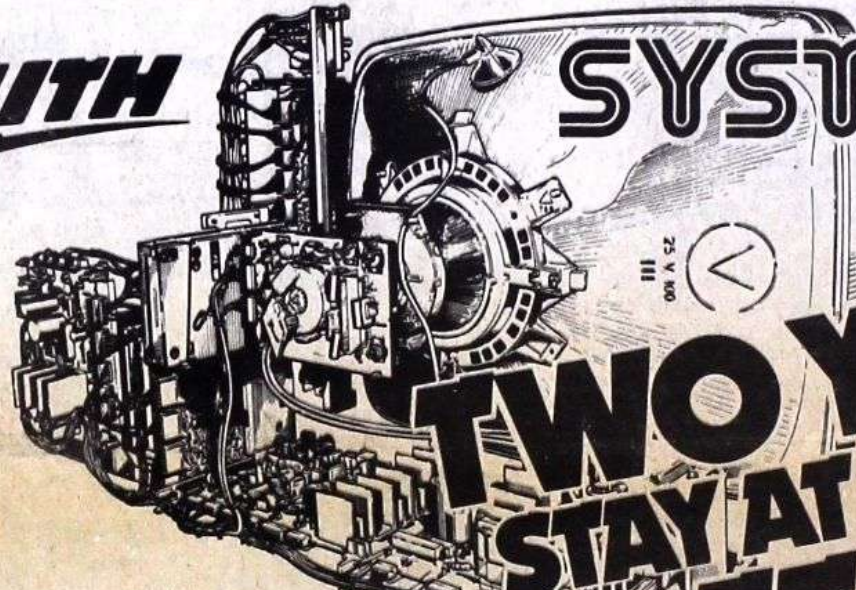

The U.S. Metric Board, an independent federal agency, will conduct its regular business meeting on the afternoon of Oct. 18 and beginning at 8:30 a.m. Oct. 19. The tentative agenda includes a review of procedures for metric conversion planning, anti-trust guidelines, recent resolutions by the National Conference of Weights and Measures, and a report on the activities of the Interagency Committee on Metric Policy.

The Metric Board was established by Congress to plan and coordinate the increasing use of the metric system in the United States. The 17 citizen members of the board are presidential appointees, confirmed by the U.S. Senate, to represent consumers, labor, small and large business, education, engineering, science, state and local government, and the public at large.

Inflation: First step is learning ... where it hurts most

(First in a series of five articles)

Is there anything the ordinary family can do about inflation, short of moving into a cave with a year's supply of turnips? Certified Public

Doubling up can cut cost

Thousands of drivers in southeast Michigan are losing about $11.20 each week. That's because they are not doubling up on their way into work and, therefore, on the average, shell out about $22.40 each week that could be cut in half, if they'd only find a friend.

A recent study by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) confirms that, on the average, most people still are riding in their cars by themselves.

And that's not good for saving energy, curbing air pollution or avoiding traffic jams, SEMCOG says.

SEMCOG, which is in the business of transportation planning for the seven counties of southeast Michigan, released a summary of a traffic-counting survey that was conducted in early May with the help of the Michigan Department of Transportation.

During the survey, traffic surveyors were stationed at 69 locations scattered throughout the seven counties of Southeast Michigan. The surveyors noted the number and type of vehicle on the road (cars, vans, motorcycles, trucks), the number of passengers each carried and the time of day.

Although SEMCOG transportation planners will be using the data in sophisticated, computerized analyses to determine whether various transportation and air quality-related programs are useful or needed, the data itself produced some interesting findings about passenger loads and truck travel.

For example, people using their cars in the morning from 7 to 9 a.m. will generally be alone, while the midday period from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. will show the greatest amount of ride-sharing.

Or, more people ride by themselves on urban freeways than on rural arterial roads.

But, in the more urban counties (Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw), people tend to double up more on arterial roads than on freeways running through the same area.

The reverse is true in the country where people seem to ride together more often on their freeways than they do on their arterial roads.

And, for those who don't like to follow a truck, you'll have to put up with more trucks on the road during the midday period than at any other time.

SEMCOG's report says that when all locations were grouped together, the average passenger vehicle occupancy load never even reached 1.5 persons per car.

The highest average passenger load was 1.44 and occurred on local rural roads from 2 to 5 p.m. The lowest figure was 1.15 for urban freeways between 7 and 9 a.m.

Accountants, who help corporations, state and local governments, and other organizations deal with the problem, say there are remedial actions families, too, can take.

In a series of five articles, beginning this week, members of The Michigan Association of CPAs share some of their insights and offer dollar-guarding suggestions for what is known in corporate circles as "cost containment," but might be termed more simply "living with inflation."

This series will cover the effects of spiraling prices on family purchases, rentals, borrowing practices, home ownership plans, investments, savings and hopes for the future, and offer ways to counter those effects.

Not everyone is hit by inflation in the same way nor to the same extent, the CPAs say. Persons on fixed income suffer the most, while those whose wages or prices are keyed to inflation may be affected hardly at all. To cope with your own particular inflation problem you should know just what that problem is — how your income and purchasing power are uniquely squeezed.

The government's Consumer Price Index (CPI for urban families) is some help, but only some. It divides the cost of living into seven categories and assigns a weight to each category, based on the percentage of total spending the "average family devotes to each."

For that "average" family, here's where the money goes:

- Housing, 44 percent.
- Food, 19 percent.
- Transportation, 18 percent.
- Apparel, 6 percent.
- Health care, 5 percent.
- Entertainment, 4 percent.
- Other goods and services, 4 percent.

(The "other" omits savings, investments, gifts, mortgage amortization, pension contributions and any other costs that might be expected to bring eventual returns and in that sense do not constitute spending. The biggest "other" expenditures are for education, toiletries and tobacco.)

The CPI also breaks down the overall inflation rate to show how much each category has swollen, relative to prices that prevailed in 1967, the base year. Below, we see where the cost factors stood at the start of this year, with 1967 prices representing 100:

- Housing, 228.
- Food, 214.
- Transportation, 193.
- Apparel, 162.
- Health care, 228.
- Entertainment, 181.
- Other goods and services, 189.
- Average, 203.

This means the average family last year spent $203 for goods and services that cost $100 in 1967.

But if your spending percentages differ from the average family's, being concentrated, perhaps, in areas that have risen more, or less, than the average, the government's CPI doesn't show accurately how inflation has hit you.

To learn that, compare your expenditures with those of the average family, determining what percentages of your total spending you devote to each type of goods and services, then multiply the result by the Cost of Living Index for that category.

By comparing your personal inflation index with the average national end-of-1978 CPI of 203 you can see if you are suffering more or less from inflation than the average family. And a comparison of your percentage allocations to those of the average family probably will tell you why you are faring better or worse.

Such comparisons should be helpful in your personal financial planning, pointing to areas where spending might be reduced to lessen inflation's effects, according to the CPAs.

Trucking seminar planned

The Ramada Inn at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus will be the site of an Oct. 3 truck fleet safety and driver training seminar, sponsored by the Private Truck Council of America.

All truck operators, whether they are private fleet operators, common or contract carriers, public utility or government fleets, are invited to attend.

Along with driver training, the seminar will cover new regulations and Department of Transportation record keeping requirements. The seminar highlight will be an actual vehicle inspection, conducted by Department of Transportation inspectors.

The seminar registration fee is $60, including lunch. Registration can be completed at 8 a.m. the morning of the seminar, or through pre-registration by sending the fee to Dick Henderson, Private Truck Council of America, 1101 17th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

ARE YOU SUFFERING FROM LOWER BACK PAIN?

This year, nation-wide, hundreds of thousands of people will suffer the disabling effects of spinal injury. Many of these symptoms of defects first appear as pain in the lower back and leg. The Doctor of Chiropractic has learned from long experience that most lower back and related leg pains are caused by physical defects in the alignment of one or several segments of the lower spine. Whenever lower back pain occurs, and persists, see your Doctor of Chiropractic. His experience and training will help you onto the road to recovery.

Experiences teach that for the spine to function properly as a flexible and dependable posture support, and at the same time provide protection for the spinal cord and nerves, each of its segments (vertebrae) must be in precise alignment with connecting segments. In addition, a critical range of movement must be maintained by supporting muscles and ligaments.

A sudden fall, accident or strain from lifting can destroy this delicate balance and precision movement. Another contributing factor can be poor posture. The results of this structurally altered spine is chronic or recurring back pain. It must be remembered that normal strain on a structurally weak back, or severe strain on a normal back may be sufficient to displace the vertebrae. The forcing of the vertebrae into out-of-range positions alters the nerve openings, pinching the nerve supplying the adjacent parts of the body. This can result in discomforts and other serious symptoms affecting all parts of the body.

For an example, the spinal nerves supplying energy to the legs pass through tiny openings between vertebrae in the lower spine. When one or several vertebrae are displaced, the nerves may be compressed, causing a nerve pain which extends down the leg. The alignment of the lower back is a vital and necessary part of the well-being of the human body. Care and treatment of existing conditions can prevent serious conditions and results.

Welcoming delegates

The minister of Youth, sport and recreation, Brian Dixon, welcomed delegates at a reception in the Victorian Parliament House. Standing behind Dixon were acting Premier Lindsay Thompson and his wife, and Ray McCulloch, president of the Australian Association of Community Education. Standing in the crowd to Dixon's left were Jack and Judy Carter.

Romulus teacher surveys education -- Australian style

The following story is by Bill Smith, the Romulus Community Schools' community education director, who is on a leave of absence. One aspect of his leave was attendance at the Third International Community Education Conference, and was in conjunction with visits to Australia, New Guinea and New Zealand, all undertaken at Smith's own expense.

BY BILL SMITH

Even as I boarded a DC-10 in Los Angeles, it was hard to imagine that I'd be halfway around the world in less than a day. My destination? Melbourne, Australia and the first leg of a trip which would cover approximately 25,000 miles.

With refueling stops in Hawaii and Pago Pago, the big jet finally touched down in Sydney — 18 hours after departing Los Angeles. Despite two full-length movies, the flight proved boring and exhausting. The novelty of crossing the International Date Line was shortlived as the captain simply exclaimed that Saturday had just become Sunday.

Following a 1½-hour flight to Melbourne, I was finally able to sense my arrival in a different land. Most obvious was the Australian accent. I quickly accepted the phrase, "Are you right, mate?", as a friendly gesture rather than an inquiry into my political beliefs. Leaving the airport by car was another surprise since I had never driven on the left side before. Finally, it was noticeably colder than Los Angeles. The seasons are reversed in the southern hemisphere, and Melbourne was in the middle of winter.

A long sleep straightened out my jet lag, and I regained my "land legs" with a jog around Melbourne's beautiful Botanical Gardens. The running trail also carried me past the 1956 Olympic stadium. A sense of athletic history and tradition was clearly present in the surroundings.

A major aspect of my visit to Australia was attendance at the Third International Conference on Community Education. On Aug. 19 a formal reception initiated the week's activities as 3,000 delegates from 43 nations converged on Melbourne. Smiles and handshakes filled the opening ceremony. A New Zealander approached me and began discussing community involvement. Carlos from Paraguay joined in with the help of an interpreter. The warmth and courtesy of China's representative caused me to question the oft-times strained relationships between East and West. Several Canadian delegates were in attendance and 20 participants from the United States were also on hand.

Of particular interest to me was the delegate from Papua, New Guinea. In a month I am scheduled to join an expedition to New Guinea's interior, and he eagerly offered several helpful suggestions. As the reception ended, a feeling of closeness linked the conference participants. Reminiscent of childhood days, we grasped hands and formed a circle before departing for the evening.

The keynote address was delivered the following morning by the Honorable Brian Dixon, Minister of Youth, Sport and Recreation. A former star Australian football player, Dixon's strong features and energetic speaking style reminded me of Bobby Kennedy. His address paralleled Kennedy's optimistic view of the human condition and provided an excellent springboard for the conference's theme, "Here Come the '80s."

A workshop, entitled "Women in Education", caused the first flurry of excitement as women participants expressed frustration and impatience at the lack of women's influence in educational policy and leadership. Of all participants, Australian women seemed most discontent with their status as educators. This discontent was highlighted when several delegates gathered at a local pub for an informal session. Typical of most Australian taverns, one room was reserved for male patrons while a second lounge was intended for mixed company. According to the Australian women, this and many other old-fashioned customs have subtly preserved a strongly male-oriented society.

It was my privilege to make a presentation at the conference, and I chose to relate my experiences as director of Head Start in Romulus. Designed to serve low income children 3 and 4 years of age, Head Start has become one of the most successful preschool projects in the United States. I began the presentation with a brief description of Romulus and the organization of its Head Start program.

A largely Australian audience then posed several questions, which helped to uncover a major difference between our countries' educational systems. In the State of Victoria (Melbourne is located in Victoria), the state government has complete determination of budget and staff for all public schools. Realistically speaking, local support and control of schools is unknown. Head Start's emphasis on parent involvement in decision-making, budget development and hiring practices impressed many educators in attendance. Parents and other lay persons in the audience were especially enthusiastic about a format which legislates parent involvement into the educational process.

There was a general impression among members of the audience that Head Start was considered a failure in the United States. This conclusion seemed to stem from well-publicized studies on Head Start during its first two years of operation. Recent research, however, documents the program's effectiveness. It was easy for me to understand this lack of current information. For several days I was naive enough to search Melbourne's newspapers for American baseball standings, football forecasts or general news about the States. Only two events were covered in detail during my stay — Andrew Young's resignation and detention of Russian ballerina Ludmila Vlasova.

Judy Carter, daughter-in-law of President Carter, presented the second major address to the conference. Her speech on community organization was well received by delegates, and many were complimentary of Mrs. Carter's soft-spoken and genuine concern for education. The following day delegates from the United States assembled for a luncheon with Mrs. Carter and her husband Jack, and I was equally impressed with their casual and courteous nature. It was with pride that I identified myself from Romulus, easily the smallest city represented. Of course, I had to undergo the usual joking about Romulus and Remus — thank goodness there is a Remus, Mich., to fall back on.

Melbourne skyline

Melbourne, which became internationally known when it hosted the Olympic Games in 1956, provided the backdrop for the Third International Conference on Community Education. The Yarra River, which runs through the city, provided a reflecting pool for this photo, taken by Bill Smith, director of community education in the Romulus Community Schools, who attended the conference and spoke on the district's Head Start Program.

Consumer Comment

By LINDA JOY
Executive Director
Michigan Consumers Council

Mr. T called the Consumers Council Guideline with an extremely complicated dispute with his landlord. After hearing the facts, our counselor suggested that he talk to a lawyer about the advisability of filing a lawsuit.

"But I don't have a lawyer! How do I find one?" Although the American Bar Association now allows lawyers to advertise, consumers may want to go beyond the information in the ad to find an attorney to fit their particular needs.

The first step is to locate a lawyer who deals in the legal area where the consumer needs help. Friends, business associates, employers, real estate agents, bank officers or law school professors may be able to recommend an attorney.

Another source is the Lawyer Referral Service of the Michigan State Bar Association. Located in most counties in Michigan, this service provides the names of lawyers who are willing to take on new cases. These attorneys have also agreed to charge a $10 to $15 fee for an initial consultation which is lower than the average rate. The state-wide toll-free number for the Lawyer Referral Service is 1-800-292-7850.

From these sources, a list can be drawn up of lawyers to be interviewed personally. Don't be afraid to ask the lawyer specific questions about fees, experience, qualifications or procedures. A telephone call to the lawyer's office before a personal interview will reveal the charge for the interview (if any) and may answer some questions before the appointment.

Find out if the lawyer charges a fee for an initial consultation, has previously handled a similar type of case, provides a written, understandable estimate and final bill for his or her services, offers a regular itemized statement of amounts owed, will freely discuss fees and methods of payment and will provide client references.

It's important for the consumer to feel comfortable with an attorney who will handle a legal case. During these interviews, a potential client should ask as many questions as necessary to get a clear picture of a lawyer's competence and eagerness to take the case.

After hiring a lawyer, it is important to keep open good channels of communication. Remember, do not expect free advice, do not expect simple answers to complex questions, do not slant any information to the lawyer and keep the lawyer informed of any and all new developments in the case.

Another alternative is to file a complaint with the Attorney Grievance Commission of the State Bar. Its address is 10th Floor, Law Center Building, 600 Woodward Avenue, Detroit 48226; call 961-6585. The commission will investigate complaints against an attorney and has the authority to begin suspension or disbarment procedures.

For more information on this or any other consumer topic, call the Consumers Council Guideline at 1-800-292-5680, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. It's toll-free.

Area realtors say

Cool weather turns homebuyer interest to fireplaces

With cooler fall weather getting set to sweep into southeast Michigan, area realtors report increased interest among prospective buyers in homes equipped with fireplaces. "While fireplaces were long ago superceded as the major source of home heating by more modern methods, they retain both a romantic and practical appeal," said members of the Western Wayne

Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

They noted that part of the high interest in fireplaces may have been triggered by electrical power outages during the past few years.

"Nationally, about half of new homes are being equipped with electric heat and those using gas or oil rely on electricity to distribute heat through the home," the realtors said. "When the power goes off for a significant length of time, many of the owners have to seek refuge with friends or relatives in unaffected areas."

"However, we frequently find sellers now who boast of the value of a wood-burning fireplace in such emergencies. Generally, it provided sufficient warmth so the house could remain occupied and even served for cooking and heating water."

The WWOCBR members pointed out that on a nationwide basis, fireplaces now are being installed in about two-thirds of new homes, almost double the rate of just five years earlier.

"They can be a very positive sales point for a home, particularly at this time of year," the realtors said. "When added in an existing home, they appear to represent an investment that can be largely recovered when the home goes on the market."

Homeowners considering a fireplace installation are advised by the WWOCBR to give heed to design, location and safety.

In most cases the fireplace will remain as a permanent fixture so care should be taken that the chosen style fits overall home and room decor. While it can serve as a focal point, it should blend in rather than dominate whether its in the living room, bedroom, den or even the kitchen.

To get the most value from a fireplace, it should be installed where it looks best and is most practical, so location is important. What room will provide the most enjoyment and use and how much heat can the room take and remain comfortable are questions that should be considered.

Safety is an over-riding factor.

Some light-weight steel fireplaces offered today do not require masonry walls or a supporting foundation. But most others must be supported on concrete or other masonry — not wood framing.

Each fireplace requires a separate flue and every unit should have a damper offering adequate ventilation while effectively closing the flue passage. Outlets to chimneys also must be safely constructed to comply with local building codes and published industry guides.

The WWOCBR members said today's homeowners will find manufactured fireplaces offered in many styles and variations that can be installed for a perfect mating with almost any room. But, costs can run from a few hundred dollars to a thousand or more.

The Realtors caution that the investment return will diminish if the fireplace cost is out of keeping with the overall value of the home.

Association urges caution in use of Notary seals

Prompted by a current epidemic of phony Notary seals, the National Notary Association (NNA) is urging greater caution on the part of agencies and firms accepting notarized documents and stricter accountability on the part of seal manufacturers.

Phony seals — either counterfeits duplicating valid Notary seals or seals acquired using false names — have proliferated in recent months, according to reports from law enforcement agencies across the nation and Notary-commissioning authorities in several states.

Most often, the phony seals are imprinted on fraudulent property grant deeds, on which a swindler has forged the signatures of the property owners and listed himself as purchaser. He then has the fraudulent deed recorded and "sells" the property to an unsuspecting mortgage company or uses the property as collateral to obtain a loan.

"Phony Notary seals are a way of bypassing the vital screening agency of the Notary Public," said NNA vice-president and executive director Milton G. Valera.

"The Notary has the duty of identifying the signers of important documents and thereby screening for frauds. By eliminating the Notary, a swindler will eliminate the most important deterrent to document fraud."

Valera pointed out that county recording offices normally only check to see if a notarized document is in correct form — without ascertaining the validity of the notarial seal.

"Unfortunately," said Valera, "subsequent handlers of the document — title insurance and mortgage companies, for instance — tend to assume that recordation necessarily means validation. It does not. Usually, only when a document bears an out-of-state Notary seal will the recorder require a validating 'certificate of authority' for the notarial seal."

Valera suggested several steps firms might take in checking the validity of a questioned notarial seal:

(1) Contact the clerk of the county printed on the Notary seal in question. In many states, all Notaries must file oaths of office and bonds with their county clerks; this registration is a public record.

If the county clerk has no record of a Notary, the notarial seal may have been manufactured for a non-commissioned person using a false name. To determine if a commission actually has been issued to a given name, the office of the governor, secretary of state, or other commissioning authority should be contacted.

(2) Contact the Notary himself. If the Notary has no record of a document in question, a counterfeit seal may have been used.

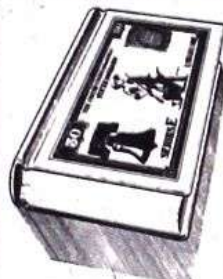

To deter fraud, Valera suggested, firms should thoroughly inspect the personal identification of any individual presenting a notarized and recorded deed or other document as a basis for the transfer of funds. Such firms, he added, might consider requiring this beneficiary to leave a fingerprint beside his signature on any document; few criminals want to leave a fingerprint as evidence of a crime.

The NNA executive also urged rubber stamp companies that manufacture Notary seals to consider a policy of requiring proof that a customer has been issued a notarial commission.

"A manufacturer might ask to see the customer's commission certificate," said Valera, "then compare it with the customer's personal identification. This would pose an additional deterrent to a person contemplating a document fraud."

8A. Motion by McAnally, supported by Carter, to adopt Resolution No. 79-391:

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus, by its Resolution 79-388, adopted August 28, 1978, established an Industrial Development District pursuant to Public Act 198, of 1974, as amended; and

WHEREAS: Dearborn Tool and Machine Corporation filed an application requesting approval of an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate, within the Industrial Development District, described in the attached legal description (see application submitted) pursuant to Public Act 198, Michigan Acts of 1974, as amended; and

WHEREAS: Said application conforms to all requirements set forth in Section 5, Subsectional, of Act 198 of 1974, as amended, and meets all requirements prescribed by the State Tax Commission; and

WHEREAS: The City Council for the City of Romulus has completed a thorough investigation designed to determine the feasibility, acceptability, and legality of its method of proceeding and proposed action based on the provisions of Public Act 198, as amended; and

WHEREAS: The legislative body of each government unit which levied ad valorem taxes on said property has been afforded an opportunity to be heard on this matter at a Public Hearing held August 28, 1979; and

WHEREAS: The Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the Wayne County Intermediate School District, the Romulus Board of Education, and the City Assessor did not advise the City of Romulus of any objections to the City Council of the City of Romulus approving the application; and

WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus, by its independent investigation, has determined that the approval of the application will be beneficial to the City of Romulus and the Industrial Exemption Certificate for an amount exceeding the five (5 percent) percent limitation found in Section 9, Subsection 1, Subsection f, of Act 198 of 1974, as amended, would not have the effect of substantially impeding the operation of local government or impairing the financial soundness of any unit levying an ad valorem tax within the City of Romulus on August 28, 1978.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: By the City Council of the City of Romulus pursuant to the authority vested therein by Public Act 198 of 1974, as amended, does herewith grant approval for Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificates to Dearborn Tool and Machine Corporation as requested in its application filed with the City of Romulus on July 12, 1979; for a total period of six (6) years, commencing with final approval as provided in the Act.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the limitation regarding the aggregate state equalized value found in Section 9, Subsection 1, Subsection f, of Act 198 of 1974, as amended, is hereby waived; and the City Clerk is hereby directed to forward a copy of the application of Dearborn Tool and Machine Corporation for the Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate, together with a true copy of this resolution approving same, to the State Tax Commission of the State of Michigan for its consideration.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That the Industrial Development District as established by the City Council of the City of Romulus in its Resolution 79-388, be and the same is herewith extended for a period of three (3) years.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Carter, Cantrell, McAnally, Block, Canejo, Raspberry, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Cantrell, supported by Raspberry, to request that the City Clerk, Leonard J. Folmar, get information from the Michigan Municipal League and the National Association of Mayors regarding Head Tax at the Airport; and that same be submitted to the City Attorney, Charles Lowther, for an opinion as to the feasibility of adopting similar legislation in the City of Romulus. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - McAnally, Cantrell, Carter, Block, Canejo, Raspberry, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

9. Motion by Canejo, supported by Raspberry, to adopt Resolution No. 79-393:

RESOLUTION 79-393

WHEREAS: Millions of dollars are lost each year by property owners, both public and private, as a result of property damages caused by operators of motor vehicles; and

WHEREAS: In the vast amount of circumstances, said property loss occurs where the motor vehicle is identifiable, but the operator of said motor vehicle is not; and

WHEREAS: This inability to identify the actual driver or operator, even though the motor vehicle is identifiable, leaves the injured property owner with the financial loss and only a civil remedy to recoupe same; and

WHEREAS: The City Council for the City of Romulus requests that this type of problem be referred to their State Legislators for the purposes of solution including, but not limited to statutory changes rendering the owner of the motor vehicle responsible for said property damages as a condition of the privilege to drive.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus does hereby refer the above captioned problems to its Representatives and Senators in Lansing for solution so as to provide an adequate remedy to protect property owners in this type of situation.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to Richard Austin, Secretary of State, Lansing, Michigan.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, McAnally, Cantrell, Carter, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

10. Motion by Block, supported by Cantrell, to adjourn the meeting. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, McAnally, Cantrell, Carter, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

Respectfully submitted,

Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk
City of Romulus

I, Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk of the City of Romulus do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of the Minutes of the regular meeting of the Romulus City Council held September 4, 1979.

Sullivan picked to fill ed board vacancy

A Canton Township man, 37-year-old Brian T. Sullivan, is the newest member of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools' Board of Education, appointed last week to fill the vacancy created when Gerard McGrath resigned recently.

Sullivan was picked from among 10 candidates who had submitted their names for consideration. The six school board members went through eight "ballots" at the meeting to narrow down the choices, until Sullivan got the required 4-vote majority to win the position.

He and other candidates had been interviewed by the board members last week.

Sullivan was among the candidates who sought election to the board in June. It was his first try for public office.

He is employed by American Microsystems Inc., as a national automotive sales manager, working in sales of electronic components. He is a former employee of Burroughs Corp., where he acted as a UAW Chief Steward involved in contract negotiations.

Sullivan's wife, Kathy, is a teacher at John Glenn High School. Their daughter, Stacey, attends a high school for the deaf in Washington, D.C.

The new board member went right to work after being selected Monday night, repeating the oath of office administered to him by Board President Thomas Barrett, then participating in a study session.

He had high praise for the board member whose seat he is taking.

"I don't expect to replace Mr.

McGrath, he was an outstanding board member," Sullivan said. "I will vote on the issues as I see them, with the knowledge that I have, and I hope I serve the people well."

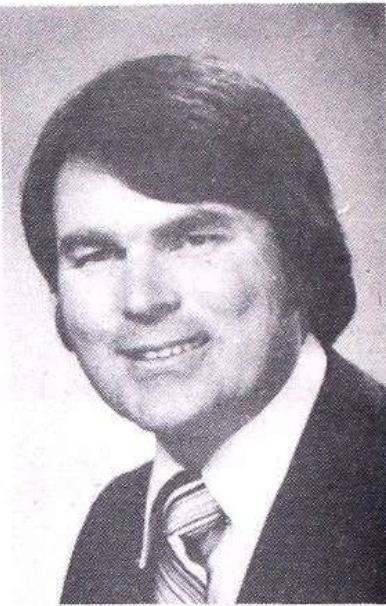

He added that he is pleased to bring representation from Canton Township to the board. The school district includes a portion of the southeastern section of Canton.

Sullivan will have to seek election at the polls, if he wants to stay on the board past June of next year. Although that election date is some time away, Monday he said he expects to seek office when the time comes.

He added that he is "impartial, not backed by any interest 'group,' and will make his own decisions."

He chose to run for election last June and to ask for the appointment to this vacancy, because "I wanted to give something back to the community."

The appointment of Sullivan brings to five the number of school board members now on the board who first got the job by appointment. Stephen Kelly, Don Rusnock, Ken Marshall and Mildred Batterson all came to the board through appointment, and were all subsequently elected by the citizens to the positions.

the larger car continued on for 25 more feet, police said.

Officer Brokas said the gas tank of the victims' car apparently ruptured at the top, which would have sent gasoline into the passenger compartment and probably was ignited by a spark.

The man driving the full-sized car fled the scene on foot, police said, but a passenger who had been in the car remained at the accident.

Westray was picked up by police at his home six hours later, Brokas said. He is charged with four counts of manslaughter, a 15-year maximum felony, and four counts of leaving the scene of a fatal accident, a 2-year felony. The charge of manslaughter pertains to unintentional taking of a life with gross negligence, police explained.

Although it is usual practice to take blood samples to test for alcohol or drugs in a person arrested on such a charge, the time lapse before Westray's arrest precluded that procedure, Brokas added.

Westland fire fighters had to cut away the roof of the small car to extract the charred bodies of the four victims. The medical examiner listed the cause of death as smoke and soot inhalation, Brokas said.

The other car was damaged, but driveable, police said.

Traffic Bureau head Lt. Al Billings described the crash as "the worst single accident Westland has ever had," causing the most number of deaths in one incident.

Funeral services were held for the four victims Tuesday.

The deaths brings to 13 the number of traffic fatalities in Westland this year, surpassing the death toll of nine for 1978.

Detroit teachers

Pity those poor Detroit teachers.

Beset by raging inflation, declining enrollment, a growing movement to force them to live in Detroit, and average salaries (just a breath away from the poverty level) of $25,000, and you wonder why they even bother to try and stay in the business.

This week's latest round of negotiations in the current Detroit teacher strike, finds the leader of the Detroit Federation of Teachers (DFT), claiming that an unresponsive school board, a board unwilling to give away the store, has again missed an opportunity to get the kids back to school.

It sounds very much like a situation pitting the teachers, in white hats, against the school board, in black.

But who is on strike?

Who has illegally deprived the kids of Detroit of the education they so desperately want and need? The answer is obvious. It is the Detroit school teachers that have brought the educational process to a halt.

The same teachers who are responsible for the fact that many Detroit youngsters graduate from school and cannot read or write.

While we will support to the hilt the right of workers to be treated fairly and to receive fair compensation for fair labor, we must question the fairness of Detroit's teachers, who are now withholding their services from the kids who so badly need the class time.

Perhaps it is time to implement a new approach toward compensating teachers for their efforts. Perhaps it is time to reward teachers for teaching and to withhold those rewards from those teachers who are just putting in their time.

Certainly there are thousands of dedicated teachers in the Detroit system. Just as certainly, there are thousands of teachers unqualified to even monitor the lunchrooms.

There are few past or present parents who would not recognize the fact that good teachers deserve good pay. But it is not the good teachers that have created today's problems. It is the poor ill-equipped teacher who is responsible for the poor image currently enjoyed by the teaching profession.

It is time for the teachers and their union to recognize the reality of the situation.

Just as long as they continue to protect their members who do not produce, citizens will continue to object to paying for substandard education for their children.

The teachers, by act, are fueling the very fires they have attempted to douse with money, tax reform.

The citizens will not much longer be willing to sit back and watch as their children endure the benefits accrued from a strong teachers union made up of highly paid teachers who have not yet decided where their priorities lie.

Good teachers should be well paid. Poor teachers should not be allowed to teach.

Only the teachers themselves can reverse the trend which promises to deal harshly with everyone equally.

Good teachers and bad alike.

Legislation awaiting house

By ROBERT LAW
State Representative
36th District

With the summer months behind us, the Legislature can look forward to the difficult task of molding proposed legislation into laws that will benefit Michigan's citizens.

As you probably know, I have been traveling around the Western Wayne County area on an extensive town hall meeting program designed to directly hear the views of people on important issues facing the state.

Prepared with the information gathered and suggestions made by many of you, we in the legislature are anxious to begin session although it is not going to be an easy one. Several extremely important issues — real estate steering, essential insurance, a bill to repeal the state's presidential primary, wetlands, right-to-strike legislation for teachers, workers compensation, marijuana decriminalization and the public ethics bill — will be debated and voted on by the Legislature.

Thousands of Michigan's residents will be directly affected by what we decide to do on every one of these issues and we are all indirectly affected in some way by the decisions made on all of these issues.

I am hopeful that each of these issues will be given the full attention it deserves and that no hasty decisions are made. I would rather that we go slow before making up our minds, rather than hastily approving a poor piece of legislation.

Three controversial bills, the one to repeal the presidential primary; one on real estate sales; and one dealing with essential insurance legislation, have passed the House and are awaiting Senate action.

Public employees' right to strike legislation has been debated in a special House labor subcommittee throughout the summer months. The three Republican members of that committee plan to offer a proposal of equal financial penalties for both sides as a means of reducing teacher strikes in number and length.

Likewise, a workers compensation task force has been meeting this summer although few substantive results have come out of those meetings. Both sides will have to make progress soon if any reform in that area is going to be worked out this session.

The next few months are going to be challenging for those of us in the Legislature. We will be attempting to shape legislation that will likely have a great impact on all of us for many years to come.

We will do our best to make sure that all legislation passed is good legislation. We welcome your suggestions and comments. Please call me at 422-0750 if you wish to give me the benefit of your input. I will be more than happy to talk to you about matters that are of concern to you.

Recall faces attack

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

Shame on you William Keith!

In your haste to "protect school board members from foolish recall campaigns," you have risked widening the gulf between elected officials and their constituents.

And it is ironic that the democratic process would become the vehicle to undermine the democratic process.

William Keith is the Democratic State Representative of Inkster, Garden City and Dearborn Heights.

Two weeks ago, it was reported that Keith had sponsored a bill in his House Elections Committee which would have disallowed recall elections unless an official was found guilty of malfeasance, misfeasance, or nonfeasance in office.

The intent of that legislation, according to Keith, would be to stem the apparently growing trend by voters to attempt recall elections aimed at public officials who have "dared to vote their conscience."

Keith feels that the only solution to the problem is to make recall more difficult, rather than to attempt to resolve the deep-seated mistrust of elected officials at all levels, which is truly responsible for the recent increase in the number of recalls.

Keith further argues that the costs associated with recall campaigns is a waste of taxpayer's funds.

While it would be difficult to argue the fact that the number of recall elections is increasing, making recall more difficult is certainly not the solution to the problem.

It is indeed unfortunate that Keith chose to attack the citizens' right to throw out a politician who has, for whatever reason, motivated a sufficient number of citizens to demand his recall.

Even if we grant that school board members are often the innocent target for such recalls, and that the recalls are based on reasons beyond the control of the board members, making recall more difficult is still an unacceptable remedy.

Since statistics show that most recall attempts are unsuccessful, we must conclude that Keith is primarily concerned with the cost of recalls rather than the net effect of recall.

And if that is the case, Keith is on even shakier ground.

Over the past 200 years, government has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that it is incapable of weighing "cost effectiveness" as it may relate to proposed legislation.

For Keith now, to attack the citizens' right of recall on the basis that it is not cost effective, rings hollow.

And when Keith's proposed legislation is viewed from the perspective of the past when some elected officials constantly worked to limit the right of recall and thus remove themselves from the reach of angry citizens, the result of such legislation, if not its goal, becomes clear.

Perhaps, if Bill Keith is truly concerned with the cost of recall and its effect on the community, he could better spend his energies on legislation that would solve the "problem" altogether.

Should Keith propose that all elected officials, in all offices in the state of Michigan, be elected to only one-year terms, the need for the citizens' right of recall would be eliminated.

By making all elected officials stand before the citizens every year, the right of recall becomes unnecessary since citizens would have access to unresponsive elected officials each year.

So my suggestion, Bill Keith, is to forget about this attempt to protect yourself and other elected officials from the citizens.

Rather, you and your colleagues, whether on the school board or in the state house, should simply work to effectively represent your constituents.

Then, there will be no recalls to worry public officials.

Foster grandparent

Editor:

I am a Senior Citizen, 79 years old. I live on Social Security only. My husband passed away 13 years ago and I have served on as a Foster Grandparent for 10 years.

I left the program because of the unkindness shown me November 18, 1978.

My income is less than $5,000.00 per year and I manage to be comfortable paying my bills, thanking God each moment of the day for His help.

When I listen to radio or see and hear on T.V. about people—teachers, car-makers, etc.—striking and wanting cost of living, besides increased pay, I get sick.

The teachers are not teaching the children grammar and the three R's as I was taught, although I went to a private school (girl's) and it's sickening to hear some young people speak. What in the world do the teachers want, asking for such increases? Cost of food?

Teaching sex, etc., is not for school lessons.

Parents' responsibility is in the home to keep house and teach children how to live, etc.

It is a disgrace. A man said on T.V. he made $800.00 a week, but it was not enough to live on.

We must learn to live on what we earn. This generation lives on what the other person does or has, not his or her own. Keeping up with the Joneses!

I lost my mother at 4 years. She and my dad separated on or before my birth. Being raised by a relative whose wife was not a mother to me but, thank God, she did her best and made me the person I am today. I was taught how to live. Money was not the only thing we needed.

When my Social Security check gets to the bank and I pay my bills I have hardly anything left, but I budget and what I can buy I buy, nothing more.

If you read the Bible you will find that the world is nearing the end, and we better take care and ask God to change the world, or at least the people.

The Bible stories (Genesis) will tell you what happened thousands of years ago. It's repeating, and we'll go through the same.

I pray God will help us wake up before it is too late.

Wrong rescue

Editor:

In reference to your article dated September 19, 1979, entitled, "Victims Die Because Wrong Rescue Called", I would like to set the record straight.

I take exception to the paragraph stating one and two man cars are not capable of handling emergency medical situations in the professional manner of an EMT. I would like to inform and assure our residents that all Van Buren Township police officers are qualified in first aid and CPR....it is required.

There have been numerous occasions where our one and two man cars have been dispatched to emergency situations (such as burn victims, drownings in backyard pools, injured accident victims, etc.). I have found during my years with the department and personal knowledge of officers with whom I have worked and now work for me, all have rendered emergency medical treatment most effectively and in a professional manner of a police officer.

When dispatched in an emergency situation, our police car is generally first at the scene. Immediate action and good judgment is required of our officers. This, of course, is a result of the training received when they attend the police academy and other related seminars and schools.

At present we have 14 of 19 total officers in the department, state certified. Attendance at the police academy is on their own time, being sponsored by the part-time Van Buren Township Police Department.

Once again, I felt that the public had been misinformed as to the qualifications and limitations of this department, and now I feel I have set the record straight.

Deputies say thanks

Editor:

Each year the Wayne County sheriff deputies volunteer their services by sitting in the dunk tank and providing a law enforcement display at our festival. St. Aloysius Youth Club would like to publicly thank the following deputies who helped us out this year: Bill Wadsworth, Ray Zuke, Ken Laskaska, Peter Males, Mike Terpevich, and Edward Swamba.

We would also like to thank the candidates for public office who helped us out this year.

Teenager hits abortion

Editor:

As a 15 year old teenager living in what most people call a free and just country, I see and hear that over 6,000,000 unborn babies have been legally killed and disposed of in garbage cans along with all the other surgical waste.

It's really a pity to see that the Supreme Court can say that the word "person" as used in the 14th amendment does not include the unborn. Our society is so legal that they have laws protecting wildlife and dogs, but not defenseless human beings.

I'm very concerned with the 1973 Supreme Court's decision because half of the abortions performed now are on teenagers my age and younger. What is more horrible is that doctors who were taught to heal and preserve life are now using their skills to perform abortions, because they can only see dollar bills rather than human life.

I was always taught to respect my elders because they are older in experience and wiser than myself. Ask me how can I respect my elders if I see them committing cold-blooded murder of an innocent and defenseless human being? You're also supposed to stand by your congressmen and, of course, the Supreme Court to give them support in making fair and just laws for us to live by, but when they say that an unborn baby is not a human being, they are going too far. They have to have some kind of common sense or logic to know that life begins at conception.

Question of the week:

SHOULD THE LEGISLATURE BAN ALL SMOKING, BY ADULTS AS WELL AS STUDENTS, IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS?

Senate Bill 388 has been introduced in the Michigan Senate which would ban all smoking on public school property. It is expected to be considered by the Senate Education Committee in the next few weeks.

Those in favor of the bill point out that teachers and other adults in schools serve as "models" for pupil behavior and should not indulge in activities such as smoking which have been proven harmful. Those who oppose the bill believe that it would be an unwarranted invasion of the rights of teachers and other adults who may be visiting the school to prohibit an activity which is legal for adults and which is widely accepted in our society. What do you think?

To give your answer, please call Senator Bob Geake on Saturday, September 29 between 11:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. He will take your calls and discuss this issue with you. The phone number is 422-0750.

Carol Premo

By CAROL PREMIO, C.S.W.

Carol Premo, a Certified Social Worker in private practice in Belleville, Mich., will be presenting weekly answers to problems which may have been the source of either joy or pain for some of our readers.

You are invited to ask Carol about a problem or discuss a solution by mailing your letter to: Carol Premo, Associated Newspapers, 47818 W. Huron River Drive, Belleville, Mich. 48111.

Dear Carol,

My youngest child just started kindergarten. It is a battle every morning to get her to go to school. First she says she is too tired, then she says she doesn't feel well, then she doesn't feel like going to school, then she doesn't like the clothes she is supposed to wear, then she doesn't like breakfast.

She has never been this stubborn or difficult before. She attended nursery school so she has been separated from me before. I just don't understand her attitude at all. Help!

Battlefront Mother

Dear Battlefront,

It sounds as though your daughter has what we call "school phobia".

This is not too uncommon in young children and generally not of long duration. The cause is frequently some anxiety or insecurity about what is going on in the home. Perhaps fear of losing one's position in the family, (youngest or babied), or that the parent or parents will leave while they are gone. Is there perhaps some family friction?

The important thing for the parent to remember when dealing with a child with school phobia is that the parent has the authority, is in control. The child is to be treated warmly, lovingly but firmly. Regardless of how she fights and argues she must go to school.

She is too young and immature to make these decisions and if she is permitted it will only serve to increase her insecurity. When she says, "no I won't go," you let her know that you understand she does not want to go but she is going anyway. And be firm. After a couple of weeks her anxiety should be alleviated and she should go with no difficulty. If, however, it continues, outside counseling should be considered.

Dear Carol,

I am a sophomore in college and 20 years old. I met the guy I am dating when I was 15. We have been dating each other exclusively for the last four years, (since I was 16). He is 6 years older. He is a health and sports fanatic. He lifts weights and exercises 2 hours a day as well as playing baseball and cross country skiing, depending on the season.

It seems as if I am always waiting for him — that his priorities go first — his sports, his needs. Granted there is the knowledge he will show up eventually; he tends to be late. Is that the way it should be, me always waiting.

I know he loves me and I love him, but it seems interests are causing significant problems. Specifically I feel I make all the sacrifices. What do you think I should do?

Waiting

Dear Waiting,

It seems as if you have a clear impression of what your life with this man will be like. He is not putting you, your feelings, or interests first but is focusing on himself. Not everyone chooses to be sensitive to the needs of others and you must determine how important this is to you.

If you decide that it is important, the answer clearly is that this relationship is not for you and that you must look elsewhere. If, on the other hand, you feel that you would rather stick it out with him, by all means develop some interests of your own so that you are not always just sitting around waiting. Also, if you are counting on him changing after marriage and everything being all rosy — Don't.

When people change after those wedding vows it is not usually in the direction we would like.

Bitter federal medicine

By EDWIN FEULNER

In what might be called a bitter turn for the worse, a little known act of Congress intended to prevent child poisonings may be killing older Americans.

Or so say three New York physicians, Frederick D. Sherman, Joshua D. Warach, and Leslie S. Libow, in a recent article in The Journal of The American Medical Association.

The law — the Poison Prevention Packaging Act — was passed nearly a decade ago and mandates that most drugs and prescription medicines should be packaged in containers with "child proof" safety caps.

"Ironically, what prevents a life-threatening situation for a child can be direct threat to the life of an elderly person," the three specialists in geriatric care say in their commentary.

The reason is simple. Many elderly patients hampered by a variety of crippling diseases and infirmities find it difficult to open the containers. Thus, they don't take needed medication.

One pharmacist at Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena, California, described the situation as chaotic bordering on comical: "Elderly patients have related many instances to me describing their dilemma in trying to open their prescription containers and the variety of instruments they have used in the process: pliers, hammers, screw driver, hand-operated can opener and feet — one patient claimed that stomping on his bottle worked ... Another patient stated that her seven-year-old granddaughter could open her bottle when she, herself, could not."

If, like me, you've ever had to wrestle with a pill bottle, you can imagine how difficult it must be for older people, whose fingers aren't as nimble or as strong as they used to be.

Interestingly, this is just one example of government regulation gone haywire, say two very observant business executives in the Fall issue of Policy Review.

Amway Corporation's founding fathers Jay Van Andel and Richard DeVos also note that:

- Government regulators insisted that children's night clothing be made flame resistant, only to find out later that TRIS, the chemical flame-retardant, may cause cancer.
- Under pressure from self-anointed environmentalists, the government has proceeded to ban many of the most effective chemical pesticides developed since World War II: first DDT, then chlordane and heptachlor, and so on. The results, according to the late Dr. Robert H. White-Stevens, former Chairman of the Bureau of Conservation and Environmental Science at Rutgers University: malaria is again on the rampage around the world and our own West this summer experienced the worst grasshopper plague since the Depression.
- As Prof. Murray L. Weidenbaum suggests in his new book, "The Future of Business Regulation" (American Management Associations, 1979), maybe what we need most is some way of regulating the regulators.

Prof. Weidenbaum says "Government should learn that its decisions often can produce long-term and unexpected consequences." Which is perhaps the saddest and least discussed aspect of the entire controversy over regulation — the fact that in their all-consuming desire to help, the bureaucrats may actually be killing us with their kindness.

A date with the 'bod'

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

"Oh, Mom!" The bed bounced five feet as she leaped in between her father and me and sat cross-legged while her eyes rolled upwards and she grabbed at her heart.

"I've found him!"

He is the most! You should see his bod! Oh wow!" And all five foot nine of her rolled over the still form of her father and landed on the floor with a thud which shook the rafters of the old house.

"My God!" shouted the until now quiet figure she had just rolled over. "Can't a man sleep in his own house?"

"Oh dad! Don't you have any romance!"

"Yeah, and look where it got me." He shoved his head under his pillow and moaned.

"I'm in love!" She trailed off to her room dragging her father's blankets with her. It took a bit of doing but no mayhem occurred that night.

The church bells were ringing when she bounced again into the room.

"C'mon Mom, we have to go shopping. He's going to call me and I haven't a thing to wear if he asks me for a date."

"It's Sunday," I moaned. "Go salvage something from under your bed."

"Mother -r-r-r, I've worn that stuff before."

"Then wear it again."

She was persuaded to wait until Monday. Her persuader was her father who came out from under his pillow with fire in his eyes and strength in his brawn.

All day Sunday she sat beside the telephone.

"This thing never rings," she said. "Didn't you pay your bill?" And she would take the phone from the hook and listen for the dial tone.

"Don't use the telephone," she would shout if anyone went near the den and she had four or five wrestling matches with her brother who was waiting for another 'bod' to call him.

"All of your kids are nuts," their father said every fifteen minutes from in front of the TV set where he was watching the golf match. Every time a pro sank a putt he would tell us again how he is the world's worst golfer and he would stand up and try to sink a putt in the wine goblet.

"If HE comes over will Dad put away his putter and the wine glass?" his daughter wailed.

Sunday passed into Monday and I wasn't allowed to call the doctor even though her uncle stumbled down the stairs and had a concussion and was passing into a coma.

"He'll die!"

"YOU'LL die if you touch that phone," she hissed.

On Wednesday he called.

I would rather forget Thursday and Friday. She dragged my check book with me attached through every store in our town, and then we traveled to another town and searched their nooks and crannies.

There wasn't a blouse nor a pair of jeans, nor a dress nor a skirt in both of those towns which didn't make her look fat, matronly, sleazy, or just plain cruddy. Just before the last store closed she found $60 worth of this and that, which, when put together didn't make her look fat nor sleazy nor just plain cruddy.

Friday afternoon she took over the main bathroom and for five hours she prepared herself for the 8 o'clock date with THE BOD!

As the clock bonged 8 p.m. there was no car pulling in the driveway.

"He isn't coming! I knew it, I knew it! I KNEW it. He's decided I'm someone he doesn't want to know. I'm going to kill myself," She threw herself into her father's chair where she wouldn't have had to bother about killing herself if her father had been home. He would have done it for her.

And then the doorbell rang! it was the BOD!

Five hours later she let herself back in. The droop of her head should have told me, but I was tired and couldn't be expected to think very well.

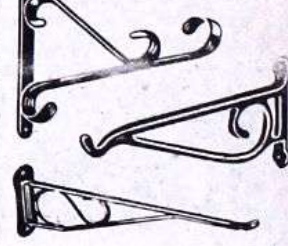

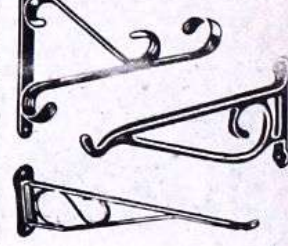

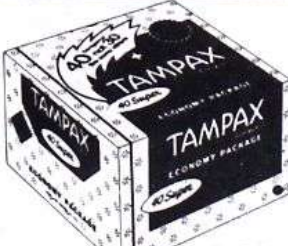

"Did you have a good time?" I beamed.

"Did you like him....."

"Yeecccch!"

This morning her $60 worth of new clothes have found their permanent niche under her bed.

Cider sipping season 'presses' into full gear

A stop at one of southern Michigan's 92 cider mills in fall is as traditional as raking leaves or following football, reports Automobile Club of Michigan. At many of the mills visitors can watch apple harvesting in nearby orchards and view pressing operations while sipping fresh cider and eating doughnuts.

The Auto Club lists 32 mills in southeast Michigan, 35 in west Michigan and 25 in east Michigan. "Cider was one of the most popular drinks of early, rural America," explained Joseph Ratke, Auto Club's touring manager. "During the mid-19th century when three of every four Americans lived on a farm, homemade cider presses were as common as woodburning stoves." Michigan ranks third in the nation in apple production and first in production of Jonathons and Northern Spies, two favorite varieties of cider apples. Some mills offer custom pressing, whereby customers bring their own apples and containers and pay the operator to extract the juice. The mills range in size from the tiny roadside stands with farm-size presses to huge operations with hydraulic presses and modern equipment. "Some cider mills stay open all year, but the peak apple-picking season is from early September through October," Ratke said. "We advise persons interested in watching pressing operations to telephone ahead. Many mills operate on irregular schedules dictated by availability of apples." The cost of cider this fall should range from $1.50 to $2.80 per gallon with doughnuts priced between $1 and $2.20 per dozen. Some mills allow customers to bring their own containers to save approximately 25 cents per gallon.

Local cider mills in operation include: —Saline Orchards, 9365 Saline Road, Saline; open 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends. —Wiard's Orchards, 5565 Merritt Road, Ypsilanti; open 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily throughout the year.

—South Huron Orchards, 38035 S. Huron Road, New Boston open daily. —Foreman's Cider Barrel, 50050 W. Seven Mile Road, Northville; open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily through Jan. 30. —Parmenter's 714 Baseline Road, Northville; open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily through Nov. 18. —Franklin Cider Mills, 7450 Franklin Road, Franklin; open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. through Dec. 1.

Favorable weather makes for good fall color 'show'

Michigan residents who are planning a fall color tour should have plenty to see and enjoy this season, says a Michigan State University forestry specialist.

Melvin Koelling said prospects are good for a good color display because of a favorable growing season with adequate moisture and sunshine. However, he cautions there may be a decrease in the intensity of the various shades of red displayed by some species, such as the sugar maple.

Species of trees like sugar maple, which characteristically have red fall colors, require a lot of sunshine to produce their typical autumn hues.

"If extended periods of cloudy, rainy weather continue through September, we may not see as brilliant a display as in some years," Koelling said. "It is highly likely, however, that the usual bright yellows and oranges will be present."

Koelling explained that August was unusually cloudy and cool over much of the state. This condition has accelerated the rate of fall color development in some species. However, most trees should still display their brilliant colors at about the same time they usually do in late September and early October.

"We haven't had the optimal combinations of bright days, cool nights and dry conditions," he said. "Although a few of the state's trees have begun changing color, this is mostly due to local environmental stresses, such as root damage caused by road salt or construction."

"The majority of trees, if the current weather continues, will possibly change only a few days earlier than usual and the colors may not be quite as vivid."

Koelling said an early frost would be the only factor which would damage the fall display.

"Many people believe that a frost is essential for color development, but a hard frost actually will kill the leaves, turning them brown," he added.

Museum ed classes open

Henry Ford Museum's fall adult education program offers a whole range of useful, but often little-known skills from Early America.

Students at these day and evening classes can learn leather-craving, metal jewelry making, Early American decorating of tinware, construction of historical costumes, herb wreaths, soap-making, spinning, jewelry box making and much more.

Besides the craft classes and workshops that emphasize learning by doing, there are numerous courses designed to expand one's appreciation of the past. These include historic tours of Detroit, a course on the world of art, a country tour, a course on old houses for those contemplating their restoration, genealogy and a number of others.

In all, there are more than 50 offerings being given at various times this fall. Call the Adult Education Department, at 271-1620, ext. 526, for details.

Archaeology workshop set

An "Archaeology Workshop" will be held at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Participants, who must be over 12 years old, will learn methods and principles of archaeology. Examination and identification of artifacts in the nature center's collection will be included.

Advance registration is required as are vehicle entry permits. For information or registration contact the nature center at Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

Insurance hotline set up in Detroit

Western Wayne County residents now can call an "Insurance Information Hotline" when they need help in solving insurance problems.

The toll-free telephone number is 1-800-292-0712. The service is designed to give consumers quick access to information on automobile and homeowners insurance, plus other property-casualty coverages. Residents also can get assistance when they have problems with their own insurance company.

The hotline is open five days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

It is sponsored by Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC), a non-profit public affairs organization representing Michigan property-casualty insurers.

According to MAIC president Terry Buckles, consumers most often call the hotline about no-fault car insurance.

"There is still a great deal of confusion about no-fault coverage," he said. Inquiries about homeowners insurance, claim settlements and premium costs also rank high on the list.

If hotline personnel can't provide information or solve a problem on the spot, they get in touch with the consumer's insurance company.

So, if you want to register a complaint, need insurance information or assistance, call 1-800-292-0712.

Never-say-die Glenn stuns Franklin

Up for grabs is a pass that is being feuded over by Livonia Franklin's Steve White (84) and Westland John Glenn's Greg O'Neil (dark jersey). Wright manages to nab the aerial for a 11-yard reception which helped the visitors build up a 12-0 lead. But Glenn countered with a touchdown late in the second quarter and scored one TD in each of the third and fourth quarters to pull out a cliffhanging 21-12 decision.

BY JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

John Glenn's football team was taken to see the movie "Rocky II" and learned the script perfectly.

Coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets watched as Rocky, battered, bloody, and nearly senseless, crawled to his feet in the last round to claim the heavyweight championship over his prostrate opponent, Apollo Balboa.

Glenn's battle with Livonia Franklin Friday night wasn't quite as physically brutal as the fight "Rocky" had, but the visiting Patriots had the Rockets "on the ropes" before Glenn managed a stunning second half "knock-out" in winning, 21-12.

With a crowd of 4,000 watching, coach Armand Vigna's squad dominated the first half and had Glenn reeling after two touchdowns gave Franklin a 12-0 lead. A touchdown on halfback Ron Gunter's eight-yard run and a blocked Glenn punt in the endzone by linebacker Doug White was fallen on by Don Cavin for the visitor's one-two combination.

But although the Rockets were staggered by the combination, they battled back to score three touchdowns. The first came with just 58 seconds left in the first half as tailback Scott Thornton, who rambled 109 yards in 21 carries, scored on a 5-yard run. Junior defensive tackle, John Johnston, added his first of three extra points and Glenn trailed at halftime, 12-7. The Rockets dominated the second half, marching 47 yards in six plays the first time they touched the ball.

Glenn delivered the really "stunning" uppercut when Thornton capped the drive by exploding 22 yards around right end, cutting back against the grain, and sprinting into the endzone. Johnston's point-after touchdown made it 14-12.

Glenn's fired-up defense kept Franklin's offense bottled up in its own half of the field the entire second half. Then, leading 14-12 with six minutes left in the game, Glenn delivered the "knockout" blow by driving 45 yards in 11 plays to blast into the endzone with 55 seconds left. Thornton's one-yard right tackle blast to paydirt, capped by Johnston's third perfect PAT, ended the titanic Northwest Suburban League struggle.

"We're coming!" That's how Coach Gordon described his Rockets' fine comeback victory against the always tough Franklin Patriots. Glenn's record went to 2-1 on the season while Vigna's scrappy crew fell to 1-2.

"One of the good things about Friday's win was that we came from behind," Gordon said. "I'm happy that we came from behind but I don't like us getting in that position to start with."

Now Glenn, 1-0, in the tough Northwest Suburban League, faces its toughest challenge of the season when undefeated, unscored on Redford Union comes to town Friday night. The resurging Panthers have demolished three foes - Livonia Stevenson, 14-0, Belleville, 20-0, and Redford Township Thurston, 33-0, - in becoming one of the top powers in the area.

"We'll know how far we've developed when we meet Redford Union Friday night," Gordon explained. "We play a great football team, they have tremendous size and great defense. They have two

Wright way

Glenn's Charlie Barescheer (85) learned about frustration the hard way Friday night when Franklin's Doug Wright (23) managed to sneak in a block his punt which was recovered by Don Cavin in the Glenn end zone. That Glenn miscue put Franklin up 12-0 and it appeared that the Patriots were on route to an easy victory.

Trenton manages to elude upset-minded Belleville

Mike Colletta almost performed a miracle. And some will argue that he did, indeed, do just that Friday night.

Colletta took a group of disenfranchised players and in the short span of two games forged a team out of them, a team that gave state-ranked Trenton a scare before losing in the closing seconds 21-15.

Despite the loss, Belleville sent waves through the Suburban 8 Conference notifying their rivals that the Tigers will no longer be the complacent losers of the past, the appointed pushovers who can't win on the gridiron.

Trenton got that message Friday night. The Trojans left town in a hurry, thanking their lodestars that they managed to elude the upset and preserve a three-game winning streak.

The Suburban 8 Conference co-leader pulled out the close victory in the waning seconds of the game when they put together a sustained drive that ended with the decisive touchdown.

"For the first time I feel we can see the light at the end of the tunnel," Colletta said. "What else can I say than that we're very proud of what these kids did, that they did everything we wanted them to do."

Trenton struck for touchdowns in each of the first two quarters and built up a 14-0 lead before departing for the locker room at halftime. Belleville refused to be discouraged. They snapped back with an onside kick to start the third quarter, which was recovered by James Donaldson and that unexpected play gave them momentum.

From midfield, quarterback Mike

Sampson engineered a drive that took the Tigers to the Trenton six where senior fullback Rick Winekoff took over. Winekoff scored his first varsity touchdown with an off-tackle slant.

Sampson then singled out Steve Cook for the conversion and Cook crashed through the bewildered Trenton lines for the two-points to make it a 14-8 ball game.

Jeff Patterson then came up with an interception which set up Belleville's go-ahead touchdown. He stole a Trenton aerial at the 37-yard line and Sampson went to work.

Sampson found Donaldson on a 17-yard pass which moved the Tigers to the Trenton 13 and a Sampson-to Jim Sayre TD pass lifted Belleville into a 14-all tie.

John Losen converted the point after, breaking the knot and giving Belleville the lead. It was the first time in nearly a decade that a Belleville team had a Trenton club looking up at them.

Trenton immediately went to the air.

Ahead 15-14 at the end of the third quarter, Belleville hung on until the final 2½ minutes of the game when the Trojans put together a 63-yard drive that terminated with the winning touchdown, a 4-yard pass.

Barry Reddick, who accumulated 87 yards rushing and picked up an additional 81 yards for his punt returns, led the Tigers offensively, while Sampson had his best game of his season. He also connected on five passes.

Belleville will have no rest in the coming weeks. They'll face another state-ranked team, Edsel Ford, Friday at 3:30 p.m. in Dearborn, then return the following Friday to host defending league champ, Plymouth Salem.

"The three teams we have thus far played are undefeated and the next two have a combined record of 5-1," Colletta pointed out. "If there is a word to describe our schedule it's tough."

Another Wayne shutout

BY TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

"We cannot make the same mistakes against Taylor Center as we did against Taylor Truman and expect to win. Taylor Center is an excellent team."

With that warning, Wayne Memorial Coach Floyd Carter prepares for their fourth and what could be the Zebras' biggest test in the Great Lakes 8 Conference.

Obviously, a loss Friday night by Wayne at Taylor Center would erase the possibility of a confrontation with Fordson, a week from Friday. The Dearbornites entered the week undefeated and ranked as the No. 1 Class A team in the state.

Will Wayne be looking past Taylor Center to the Fordson game?

Truman falls, 14-0; Taylor Center next

"I hope not," said Carter. "I've always stressed that we have to play them one at a time. Don't forget Fordson must play Monroe before they meet us - and anything can happen in this game."

Friday night, before a shivering home crowd, Wayne left no stone unturned in its attempt to score, but the Zebras just couldn't get on the board until late in the game. They had numerous scoring opportunities - drives to the Truman 12 and 18, but fumbles stopped them cold.

Wayne harassed Truman all evening long. The Zebras humbled their visitors in the closing minutes. Truman collected an anemic 50 yards total offense for their lackluster efforts in the first half and only had three first downs; Wayne didn't give up a first down and allowed 30 yards total the second half.

But Carter's Zebras just couldn't score during the first three frustrating quarters. And it wasn't because of a lack of opportunity. They infiltrated within the 20-yard line on three separate occasions but wound up fumbling twice, then attempting an 18-yard field goal by Pete Taviana which failed because of a bad snap.

It was mistakes like these that Carter was alluding to which could destroy Wayne's three-game winning streak.

Wayne looked like the perfect machine, maneuvering exquisitely until it was time to cash in. They finally broke the ice midway in the fourth quarter when running back Don Shumpert went over the goal line from 24 yards out. That culminated a 57-yard drive which took only six plays.

Ironically, a poor Truman punt helped set up Wayne's first touchdown. Mike Hathaway, who was booting the ball in the 40 to 45 yard range all night, got off a ten-yarder that put the wind into Wayne's sails.

The Sports Meridian

The spirit that wasn't

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Has the old-fashion, bonfire-kind school-spirit died at Romulus High?

It would appear so, if Friday afternoon's encounter at home against Ann Arbor Huron is an indication of "school spirit", says head football coach Don Foley.

a fierce competitor who was given the job of regrouping troops scattered two years ago due to a millage failure, pointed out "that these kids have made a lot of sacrifices to represent their school and community.

"They're busting their behinds and it has to be discouraging to them when, in a close game, they need support and look up and see just a handful of our people in the stands.

"Hey, last Friday, Ann Arbor had more fans here than we did. It's difficult to understand that when you go to a junior high game there are over 700 fans cheering and screaming, and at the varsity game the visiting team out draws the home team - what can I say? Are we asking too much for this team?"

Don't know - maybe some of the listless and languorous Romulus grid fans can answer that one.

It was good to hear Jerry Pawloski's voice smile again. Things hadn't been going too well for our man on the northside of Michigan Avenue the first two weeks of the football season when Cherry Hill's Spartans dropped their season opener to a lackluster Dearborn Heights Annapolis team then fell to Crestwood.

But Southgate put Pawloski in a cheerful mood. His boys won a 6-0 league victory. Yes, it's all here, somewhere, on the pages, so why repeat it above?

Well, the storytelling is important in that Pawloski brought up a name, John LaScola, a member of his team that is worthy mention here for a couple of reasons.

John's father, Joe, was Pawloski's high school coach at Detroit Holy Redemeeer and helped shape Jerry's outlook on life and athletics. Joe must have done an excellent job because Jerry went on to win a full-ride scholarship to the University of Buffalo where in his senior year he co-captained the team.

Now, during John's impressionable years, it's Pawloski who has an opportunity to reciprocate.

"It really is kind of strange," Jerry admits. "Who would have ever thought that I would be coaching the son of the man who taught me how to play?"

Now don't hold that against little John, coach. Let bygones be bygones.

Tolson wins Shrine Invitational title

Doug Tolson appears to have taken a proprietary interest in each and every first place there is to be had in cross country this year. The 18-year-old super-senior from Wayne Memorial added the Shrine Invitational Cross County title to his impressive list of accomplishments, easily defeating his nearest challenger.

Tolson's 14:36, though not his best for the 3-mile, topped the field of more than 150 runners who had gathered for the running of the prestigious meet.

The defending Class A state champ is also unbeaten in dual meet competition. His remarkable performance didn't do much for his team's over-all standings in the 17-team meet. Coach Ernie Righetti's harriers finished ninth, a notch below cross-town rival, Westland John Glenn.

Grosse Pointe North, a traditional power in the state, definitely established itself as the team to beat again in Michigan this year. The state champs won the invitational with 39 points, 60 less than their closest rival, Birmingham Brother Rice (99).

The final tally also included, in order, Detroit Catholic Central (101), Dearborn Fordson (112), Milford (154), Warren Mott (170), Dearborn (185), Glenn (249), Wayne (271), Walled Lake Central (299), Farmington Harrison (321), Harper Woods Notre Dame (345) and Redford Union (345).

Spotting Tolson his first, (he ran a 15:45), Glenn came up with second (Campbell), fourth (Andrews), fifth (Karl Stefles) seventh (Tim Unold and ninth (Stephens) to pick up the dual meet victory.

Wayne responded with a third place from Andy Stopchinski and then their next runner, Don Wellman, flew across the finish line sixth, losing the decisive berth to Stefles by a tenth of a second.

Who needs gas?

You'd think one would need a lot of gas to cover 1,000 miles, but Coach Jerry Szukaitis's harriers at Westland John Glenn cover that distance on "foot power". In order to get his runners ready for the cross country season, the veteran coach has initiated a program whereby runners must run 1,000 miles within a period of 100 days. Latest to join the Rocket's elite club is Tom Andrews, pictured above receiving congratulations and a T-shirt signifying he has accomplished the goal. Andrews joins an elite group of runners including Jim Kanclerz, Bob Faust (who pulled off the feat three times), and Dave Arble who spent their summers training and getting into shape.

Glenn, Franklin at starting gate

Coaches say that it's a four-team race in the cross country championship in the Northwest Suburban Conference this year.

And the names of Westland John Glenn and Livonia Franklin figure prominently in that race. The other two contenders, newcomer Redford Union, and North Farmington, will have to catch the perennially strong Glenn and Franklin teams who square off on Thursday at 4 p.m. on the Livonia based high school's course.

"I would definitely have to say that this year the four teams mentioned are the primary contenders," Franklin Coach Bob Holmes said. "Anyone of these teams can win it."

PAUL COLBURN

Holmes, who began his 13th season as head coach, said his team has greatly improved since the traditional opener at Schoolcraft.

"We have two fine runners and a group who must keep on improving in order for us to stay in contention," Holmes added.

One of the two, Paul Colburn, captured the city title in Livonia this past weekend with a 15:50 run at Cass Benton Park. His teammate Jeff Bristow finished fourth in 16:38. Other Franklin finishers were John Lank (13), John Hart (15) and Andy Arton (22).

Despite the excellent performances by Colburn and Bristow, Franklin could finish no better than third teamwise in a field of four teams. Stevenson claimed the city title with 35 points, while Churchill was runner-up with 53 and Franklin was third with 56. Bentley compiled 82 points.

In their Northwest debut, Franklin edged Redford Union by the narrowest margin, 28-29, as Colburn again led the pack with a 16:14 effort over the 3-mile Cass Benton Course. Bristow crossed the finish line second in 17:04, while Lank and Hart were fifth and eighth and Mike White finished 12.

Glenn meanwhile got off to a disappointing start in the conference, losing a 26-29 decision to North Farmington who spotted the Westlanders first place but came back to take second, third, fifth and sixth and nailed it down with a tenth place finish.

Belleville runners are 3-1

Boasting a 3-1 over-all record, Belleville and fourth year coach Dave Medley will enter the Suburban 8 Conference cross country battles on Thursday, running in the shadows of the two Dearborn powerhouses.

"We've placed behind Edsel and Dearborn in the last couple of years," Medley commented, "and they will be tough to beat again this year. Traditionally the Dearborn schools have monopolized the league title over the recent years."

Belleville will begin conference competition at Cass Benton Park with Livonia Bentley and Trenton providing the action. Coach Medley has "a brand new team with only one senior who figures in the top seven."

"I feel we have a bunch of good juniors and sophomores and our one senior, Tim McIntyre, who will figure in the scoring," Medley said. "A lot depends on how quickly we mature."

Belleville started the 1979 season, losing to Adrian, 25-30, then rebounding to beat natural rival, Ypsilanti, 23-40, zapping Romulus, 15-46, and turning back Monroe, 20-43.

Monroe's Tim Heyer was the first runner to cross the finish line.

Wayne zaps Lincoln Park

Losses to Fordson and Riverview may have dimmed Wayne Memorial's chances for the title in the Great Lakes 8 Conference tennis circuit, but Coach Jack Armstrong's girls may still be a factor in who'll eventually wear the crown.

"There are a lot of good teams in the league this year — Fordson, Monroe and Wayndotte — to name a few," Armstrong said, "we lost a lot to graduation. But, however, our girls are improving and are using this season as an opportunity to get experience."

"I feel we'll be tough in the latter stages of the season." Wayne came back and zapped Lincoln Park 7-0 to fatten its over-all record to 3-2 in the league.

Livonia Franklin's Doug White (23) and teammate Steve Droz (at left) have Westland John Glenn's Anthony Cabrera (25) pretty well covered on this pass play Friday night. The Westlanders also managed to cover up a 12-0 early deficit and bounce back to jolt Franklin 21-12 to win their Northwest Suburban Conference opener and make it two out of three this season. Franklin, after beating a tough Plymouth Salem team in its season opener, has now dropped two in a row.

Mired in penalties, Huron jolted, 19-6

If there is one thing that will take the momentum out of the offense it's penalties.

And New Boston Huron had a pile of them, 140 yards of infractions, which led to its downfall Friday night at Grosse Ile.

The Islanders capitalizing on the rewarding (for them) situation handed Coach Tom LaBeau's Chiefs a 19-6 loss, their first in two Huron Conference starts.

Grosse Ile's victory also jarred the Zebras snap opening day cage jinx

Opening day jitters have caused Wayne's girls basketball team problems in the past.

But Coach Steve Schwartz' Zebras didn't show any when they ran up against and defeated Ypsilanti 46-33 to launch their 1979 season.

"We had not won an opener for the last three years," Schwartz said, "so, obviously, we approached this one with some apprehension. However, the girls got the job done."

Ahead by a slim 14-13 margin at halftime, Wayne outscored their non-conference rivals 28-30 in the second half as Peggy Stevens tossed in 19 points before departing from the game in the third period with an injury.

Kim Mason picked up the scoring slack for the winners as she sank six of her 10 points in the last eight minutes of the game.

Ypsilanti's Bev Turman, who entered the contest with a 32 point scoring average, was held to 16 by a tough Wayne defense.

Meanwhile, Wayne jumped off to a 34-25 halftime lead and went on to defeat Riverview 63-47 in its Great Lakes 8 Conference opener last week. Wayne's output tied a previous school scoring record

Gregory's TD pass downs Southgate

Spartans savor 1st victory

First impressions are usually deceptive.

After an opening day loss to Dearborn Heights Annapolis and an opening conference defeat at Crestwood, Cherry Hill Coach Jerry Pawloski felt he was in "for another one of those long seasons."

But the Spartans surprised their coach as they knocked off pass-minded Southgate, 6-0, to snap their losing streak at two and even up their Tri-River Conference record at 1-1.

"The improvement this team has displayed in such a short period as two weeks is incredible," Pawloski offered. "If we continue to improve as much in the following weeks, I feel we will salvage a good season."

After three games on the road, the Spartans will get an opportunity to play before the home fans on Saturday when undefeated Southgate Schafer is in town. (The game is scheduled for 2 p.m.)

Schafer is a power football team," the Spartan coach pointed out. "They have experience, size and were considered as one of the two teams to beat for the title. I look for an excellent game."

Cherry Hill scored in the second quarter on a 10-yard pass from quarterback Aaron Gregory to Rick Boehm which stood up for the decisive touchdown of the game. The Spartans marched 90 yards in a series that began late in the first quarter and ended with the TD midway in the second. That drive took 10 plays and featured a couple of first down runs by Mike Johnson, who chipped in 20 yards, and two pass completions from Gregory to Gerald Lee and Boehm.

Southgate controlled the action the first 11 minutes. The Spartans managed to execute only seven plays. In the final three quarters, though, Cherry Hill did a complete turnaround and was the master of the gridiron. They controlled the ball for 56 plays.

"With the exception of the opening period, we played pretty good ball control," Pawloski noted. "In fact, we had possession for six of the last seven minutes of the game."

Gregory and John LaScola came up with a pair of key interceptions which thwarted Southgate threats. Gregory stole a pass on his own 5-yard line and ran it back to the 20, while LaScola's interception came at midfield in the third quarter.

Gregory connected on six of 10 passes for 74 yards while of the 220 yards rushing, Johnson accounted for 105 on 12 carries. Randy Fredericks, usually going to the

Inkster, Robichaud continue chase for elusive victory

Three weeks into the 1979 high school football season the two area representatives in the Suburban Athletic Conference — Inkster and Dearborn Heights Robichaud — are still looking for that elusive first victory.

Despite their identical 0-3 records, it has been more frustrating for Robichaud Coach Bob Yauck than Inkster's Arnie James. James had expected this to be a long, dismal season; Yauck hadn't. In fact, the veteran Bulldog mentor figured he had the horses to make a legitimate run for the SAC title.

What's happened? "It's difficult to say," Yauck commented. "Maybe what I thought was there, isn't. It has been frustrating for all of us."

Latest to pound a nail into Robichaud's coffin was River Rouge which handed the Dearborn Heights gridders a 18-6 setback in the SAC opener for both teams.

That loss, coupled by Highland Park's easy 25-0 triumph over Inkster, established the Parkers as the heir-apparent to the throne presently occupied by the trioka of outside, counted 78 yards in 16 tries.

Offensive tackle Jeff Hanneberg, who was responsible for opening up most of the holes, and Gerald Lee, who alternated at tight end, also turned in an excellent day's work. Mike Teschke, a safety, who made seven solos and recovered a first quarter fumble. Lee, a defensive end who had four solos and a sack of the quarterback, and Darrell Ivey, a defensive end whose pass coverage against a pass-oriented team was superb, and Hanneberg who finished with six unassisted tackles, were singled out for their exceptional defensive contributions.

A Spartan victory over Schafer would scramble the league standings and would shove Pawloski's club right back into the midst of the title picture.

Robichaud, Rouge and Highland Park.

Cougars drop 2 to Meteors

Belleville's Cougars ran up against stubborn Westland Meteor teams and came away without a victory in their Little League football series.

The Cougar Freshmen managed to salvage a 12-12 tie thanks to touchdowns by Richard Kozole who ran 45-yards for one of the scores, then blocked a punt which Greg Freitas fell on in the Meteor end zone for the second touchdown.

The Westlanders blanked Belleville 7-0 in their junior varsity contest while the Cougars came out on the short end of a 24-13 decision in varsity competition.

Tyrone Thomas's 60-yard touchdown dash and Earell Hailes' 30-yard TD scamper accounted for the Cougar scores.

guys, 6-foot-6, 215 pounds in the offensive line to move people around. We're not going to be able to let them control the tempo of the game."

In assessing Friday's win, Glenn's second come-from-behind victory in as many weeks, Gordon praised tailback Scott Thornton's performance in rushing 109 yards in 21 carries for three touchdowns. The strong, 5-10, 170-pound speed merchant gained 81 of those yards in the second half to help the Rockets maintain ball control and hold Franklin to just four first downs in the final 24 minutes.

Gordon also singled out quarterback Ken Liedel's handling of the team and the poised senior's two key pass completions. Liedel hit split end Pat Bennett for a 42-yard pass completion and later in the first half connected on a 35-yard aerial to tight end Dave Cort that was instrumental in Glenn's first touchdown drive.

Bennett, who also holds on extra point attempts, and Cort were praised by Gordon for jobs well done. Defensively, linebacker Frank Iannello, who intercepted a pass in the second half, and defensive back Anthony Cabrera were hailed for their fine play.

Franklin, who had nine first downs in the first half and only four in the second half, rushed for 179 yards and quarterback Jon McCarthy completed 3 of 11 passes for 32 yards and one interception. McCarthy, who was pressured by a strong Glenn pass rush, gained 77 yards on 14 carries and was praised highly by Coach Vigna.

"Glenn came back," Vigna said after the game. "We had them 12-0 and teams don't usually come back against us when we have them like that. We were pretty well beaten up after the game -- it was a really physical one and they really dominated us in the second half," he said.

"Middle linebacker Ron Lohman led our team in tackles and was the most outstanding man on the field. Linebacker Dave Rettig played very well and so did halfbacks Ron Gunter, Steve Droz and fullback John Waling," Vigna added. Waling suffered a broken collarbone in the first half and will be out for the rest of the season.

Vigna also commended tackle Kevin Dunbar, who played aggressively but tore up his knee and is doubtful for the next couple of games. "In fact, I thought the entire offensive line played well together, especially in the first half when we took the 12-0 lead."

Coast clear

The mainstay of the Livonia Franklin offense, Jon McCarthy (17) rounds the corner for a chunk of the 77 yards he picked up against Westland John Glenn Friday night. The Pats though wasted their quarterback's sterling performance -- 77 yards in 16 carries and three of 10 pass completions for an additional 31 yards -- in digesting a 21-12 conference loss to their neighboring rivals.

After Shumpert scored, Tavana kicked his first of two point-after. Mike Blair's pass interception set up Wayne's insurance touchdown. He picked off the pass at the Zebra 41 and made it back to the Truman 48 where six plays later Wayne scored again on quarterback Rick Covault's perfectly executed option. Covault caught the Truman defense napping. On the previous option plays, he'd usually toss to his running backs, this time he decided to keep the ball.

The Wayne QB also had his team knocking on the goal door seconds later when he intercepted a pass at the Truman 33 and returned to the three. Two dive plays and an incomplete pass later left the hosts standing there when the final whistle sounded.

Wayne amassed 14 first downs, 244 yards rushing, and 56 yards passing to Truman's three first downs, 70 rushing. Wayne had possession of the ball for 56 plays; Truman ran off 33 plays.

Shumpert cradled the ball 22 times and compiled 106 yards while Rick Rogers, still hobbling on an injured ankle, managed to rush for 69 yards on 10 carries.

Bill Wilson, a defensive end, and tackle Emory Biggerstaff, along with linebacker Bruce Rize and nose guard Gary Duplessis, were the strong defensive links. They figured prominently in the Truman shutout. "I feel it was one of our best defensive efforts in some time," Carter said.

Cagers

thanks to the efforts of Miss Stevens, Mason and Bunny Walker. All hit in double figures.

Stevens had a game-high 20 points, while Mason and Walker split 20 points evenly between them.

"I feel our guards will be the key to this season," Schwartz noted. "We graduated a couple of veterans during the summer and if we can fill the void I feel we can give Fordson and Monroe a run for the title."

Wayne will seek its second conference victory Thursday at 6:30 p.m., clashing with Taylor Truman.

Rockets

Glenn's 15-year-old junior, Tom Andrews, had little trouble picking up the first as he toured the three mile Oakland Community College course in 16:55 to beat North's Greg Rapp to the wire. Rapp was clocked in 17:14.

Pete Stephens accounted for a fourth place Glenn finish and teammates Karl Steffes, Aaron Staples and Jim Kancierz contributed seventh, eighth and ninth places, respectively.

Tigers runners are 3-1 covering the 3-miles in 16:23, while Belleville's McIntyre was second (16:31).

The Tigers also swept third, fourth, fifth and sixth thanks to Mark Barrera, John Conrad, Todd Mlsna and Jeff Collins, respectively.

In the Jackson Invitational where some of the "quality teams" gathered, Belleville finished ninth with McIntyre winding up as the 44th best runner. Barrera had the 46th best time and Conrad hit the wire 49th. Allan Hoelzel gave the Tigers a 56 and Jeff Collins was 61.

Tankers dunk Trenton

Easy victory for Wayne

With Lisa Mondock turning in a triple victory, Wayne Memorial rattled Trenton 103-69 in their season girls' swimming debut last week.

Coach Jim McPartlin's Zebras swept eight out of the 11 first places and set varsity records in four events as Miss Mondock captured the 50-yard freestyle (27.3), the 100-yard freestyle (1:01.0) and joined Cathy Batterson, Lori Miles and Lacy Lopez in the winning circle after swimming a 2:04.5 for the 200-yard medley relay.

Cathy Batterson came back to win the 100-yard backstroke in 1:09.6 which established a school record for the event. Her sister, Gretchen, put the 200-yard freestyle (2:16.1) and the 500-yard freestyle (6:11.9) into the Wayne winning column. Gretchen, Karen VanKeuren, Diane Brown and Sandy Burns combined for a 4:21.5 in winning the freestyle relay.

Wayne begins Great Lakes 8 Conference competition on Thursday when the Zebras travel to Riverview for a 4 p.m. meet. It will be Riverview's final appearance as a conference affiliate. The Pirates are scheduled to join the Huron Conference a year from now.

secondary, played well," LaBeau said.

Sean Sullivan spearheaded the Huron defense and he also managed to pick off a pass.

Monroe Catholic Central, a team that LaBeau directed six years before taking on his present challenge, is next for the Chiefs.

Each will sport even 1-1 league records, but it will be Huron's first game before the home crowd.

"Monroe has good size, a veteran offensive backfield which includes a tough fullback and a quarterback who runs the option well," LaBeau said. "It should be one heck of a game."

Kick-off is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Knight, a tackle, came out of the battle with 12 solo tackles and four assists; Hirim Golden, also a tackle, was given credit for nine unassisted and four assisted tackles were the mainstay of the Romulus defense. Romulus also received exceptional play for its two linebackers, Mark Sullivan, who counted eight solos and five assists, and Shawn Green, who had an equal number of solos but two assists.

Jackson Parkside, sporting a 1-2 record, is next for Foley's Eagles who will again be playing the role of host for the 3:30 p.m., Friday game.

ran havoc over the Bulldogs. Beaudrie scored all three touchdowns on runs of 19, 4 and 24 and wound up with 104 yards in 20 carries.

Robichaud will attempt to snap out of its tailspin Friday afternoon when Ecorse's Red Raiders invade the Bulldog lair at 3:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, Inkster will have its problems snatching away a victory from a solid Willow Run team who will host Coach James' Vikings Friday night at 7:30.

James must find someone to ignite a sedated Viking offense that has failed to produce crucial yardage this season. Inkster lost the ground game to the Polar Bears' 258 to 1, while Vennis Holmes scored on a 41-yard sprint and accounted for 111 yards in 18 carries.

Mark Hamilton scored the second TD and passed to Broderick Knight for another 11-yarder.

Baehrs cruise Mississippi on Delta Queen

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Baehr of Savage Road recently enjoyed a 2-weeks vacation from active duties. The first week they took a long-planned boat trip on the Mississippi. Embarking on the "Delta Queen" at St. Louis, Mo., they traveled to Cairo, Ill. and then up the Ohio River to Cincinnati.

The second week was spent at Traverse City with a niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stebner, and several friends.

Brian Palmer, the son of the Kenneth Palmers of Clarence Street, has returned home from White Bird, Idaho where he had spent the summer with the Forestry Division of Michigan State University. Enroute home he stopped to see his sister Cynthia, at Edmond, Okla. In Memphis, Tenn. he visited another sister, Vicki, her husband Terry, and little Allisyn, and in Johnson City, Tenn., he called on a former roommate, Mick Bover.

Brian left last Wednesday for Michigan State in East Lansing where he will be in his senior year.

After having been a medical patient at Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti for several days, Orlo Roberts was able to return to his home on High Street last Wednesday.

A former Belleville resident, Mrs. Katharine Hovey, now of New Port Richey, Fla., has been spending some time with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Keith McArthur of Savage Road, and other members of her family in the vicinity.

On Aug. 25, she attended the wedding of her son Bernard Hovey of Akron, Ohio, and Kathleen Bozzelli of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. The young couple will be making their home in Akron where he will be teaching and coaching in the school system and she will be with the Air Lines.

Mrs. Glenn Brown, with daughters Amanda and Sarah, from Ocala, Fla. were last weekend guests of her grandmother, Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street.

After having been a surgical patient at Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti for a week, Kenneth Ely of Crandall Court was able to return home on Monday, Sept. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nollf of Edison Street returned home last Wednesday from Owego, N.Y. where they had spent a week with their son, Larry and wife and family.

Mrs. Lester Corzine of East Huron River Drive spent several days last week at Wyoming, Mich., with her daughter, Mrs. Bruce Evans and family, while the latter's husband was away on business.

Jon Kouba of San Francisco, Calif. has been spending a few days with his father, Edward Kouba of East Huron River Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Seaman of Savage Road and aunt, Mrs. Myrtle

Sherlock of Glendale, Ariz., spent several days last week with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Abraham at Royal Oak. Mrs. Sherlock who has been a guest at the Seaman home for the past five weeks, left by plane last Wednesday for her home in Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fry of Liberty Street returned last Saturday from Columbus, Neb. where they had been guests for a week of their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Jon Cole and small daughter, Sarah.

Mrs. Hazel Bryan of Parkwood Manor has returned home after spending three weeks with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Kuehne, at their summer home on Wolf Lake near Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Orr of Crowley Street were Wednesday evening dinner guests of the former's brother and wife, the Floyd Orrs of Lincoln Park.

Mrs. Don Huntsinger of Taylor and Mrs. Ted Luper of Karr Road spent several days last week with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kuerth at Beulah.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Nollf and small son, Michael, formerly of Norfolk, Va., arrived on Tuesday of last week to spend some time with their grandparents, the Walter Nollfs of Edison Street. Randy has just recently been discharged from the service after having spent the past four years with the U. S. Navy.

Mrs. Dorothy Wilkinson of Santa Barbara, Calif. was a recent guest of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Sybil Wilkinson of Liberty Street, before leaving to join her husband in Nicaragua.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Warner visited The Rev. and Mrs. Michael Moser in Fort Wayne, Ind. recently and also made a side trip to Hicksville, Ohio.

Wheat germ appetizers: Royal treats

The most innovative appetizers are made with unexpected ingredients or surprising combinations. Here are some delicious wheat germ examples from Kretschmer Kitchens that are appropos beginnings for entertaining occasions. Beautifully prepared and thoughtfully presented, these savory wheat germ tempters will be fully appreciated and enjoyed by even the most discriminating palates.

Pate' lovers know there are a hundred variations of this gourmet delicacy. Surely the most extraordinary and tastiest is this wheat germ version. It has a smooth spreadable texture and a remarkably savory flavor. The ingredients are definitely health giving — wheat germ mixed with scrambled eggs, yogurt, lemon juice and fresh parsley. Blend the pate in advance, then serve with crackers, raw vegetables, even slices of crisp apple.

Plump filled triangles of flaky pastry is the second fabulous idea. They're impressive yet easy to make with prepared sheets of filo dough, available fresh or frozen from specialty food stores. The filling is wheat germ combined with spinach, parmesan cheese, sour cream, nuts and seasonings. The triangles may be filled and shaped ahead, then baked 15 minutes before serving. The third mouthwatering offering features a sherried wheat germ and shrimp mixture topped with cheese and served bubbling hot in small scallop shells. Best eaten with forks, the shrimp shells make a elegant first course for any party menu.

It's nice to know that even party appetizers can be good and healthful when they're made with wheat germ. After all, it's one of the world's most nutritious natural foods ... and a versatile, compatible recipe ingredient.

DOTTIE'S WHEAT GERM PATE

... make this your very own special recipe. It will keep everyone guessing.

- 1 tbsp. finely chopped onion
- 6 tbsp. butter
- 2 eggs
- two-thirds cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 2 tsp. lemon juice
- 1/2 cup chopped parsley
- 1/2 cup plain yogurt
- Saute onion in 2 tablespoons butter until tender. Add eggs and scramble to soft stage. Place in blender with wheat germ and all remaining ingredients. Whip until smooth, scraping down sides often. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Serve on crackers, apple slices, cucumber, carrot or zucchini strips. Makes 1 1/2 cups spread.

WHEAT GERM FILO APPETIZERS

... well worth the effort to make. Do ahead then freeze if it suits your plans.

- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 tbsp. cooking oil
- 3/4 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular
- 1 (10-ounce) package frozen chopped spinach, thawed and squeezed dry
- 3/4 cup grated parmesan cheese
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/4 cup pine nuts or slivered almonds
- 1 tsp. basil leaves, crumbled
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 7 (24 x 14-inch) filo strudel leaves
- 1/2 cup melted butter

Saute onion in oil 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in wheat germ, spinach, parmesan cheese, sour cream, nuts, basil, pepper and salt. Unroll filo leaves and remove one sheet. Keep remaining filo covered with plastic wrap to prevent drying out. Brush filo with melted butter. Cut lengthwise into 7 equal strips. Place 2 packed level teaspoons wheat germ filling on one end of filo strip and fold one corner over to form triangle and enclose filling. Continue folding as you would fold a flag until strip is completely folded. Repeat with remaining filo and filling. Place triangles on ungreased baking sheets. Brush lightly with melted butter. Bake in 350 degrees oven 15 to 17 minutes until light golden. Serve warm. Makes about 4 dozen appetizers.

WHEAT GERM SHRIMP APPETIZERS

... so good you may want to make servings larger for an entree

- 1 medium clove garlic, minced
- 1 tbsp. minced green onion
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/2 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular
- 1/2 pound shelled cooked shrimp
- 3 tbsp. dry sherry
- 2 tbsp. milk or half & half
- 1/2 tsp. thyme leaves, crumbled
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 cup grated monterey jack cheese

Saute garlic and onion in butter 1 minute over medium heat. Stir in wheat germ, shrimp, sherry, thyme and pepper. Spoon about 2 tablespoons mixture into each small scallop shell. Sprinkle with cheese. Place on baking sheet. Broil about 4 inches from heat 3 to 4 minutes or until cheese melts and mixture is heated. Makes 12 appetizers.

Abdo-Sullivan marry

Double ring vows read at Holy Trinity Chapel

Holy Trinity Chapel in Ypsilanti was the setting Aug. 25 for the double ring ceremony which joined Kathleen P. Sullivan of Ypsilanti and Michael G. Abdo of Romulus in holy matrimony.

The bride, who resided at 112 Woodward, Ypsilanti, is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Alfred A. Sullivan of 626 East Saginaw, East Lansing. Her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Abdo of 13460 Inkster Rd., Romulus.

Some 175 assembled relatives and friends witnessed the three o'clock rite conducted by The Rev.

Larry Delaney. Guitar music for the occasion was played by George Coveny.

For her wedding day the bride selected a toe-touching gown with a brief train defining the pleated skirt which was banded in scalloped lace. The cape-like bodice was tied at the shoulder to form slit sleeves and an oval neckline.

In lieu of a veil Kathleen wore a cluster of miniature orchids and sprigs of baby's breath in her hair. Completing her bridal finery was a bouquet of orchids, white roses, baby's breath and Boston fern.

As her sister's honor attendant, Theresa Sullivan of East Lansing donned a pale blue dress with an uneven three-quarter length skirt and bodice similar to that on the bride's gown. She, too, tucked sprigs of baby's breath in her hair as did the trio of bridesmaids, Cheryl Abdo Brohl of Romulus and Margaret Abdo Zimmerman of Maurice, La., sisters of the bridegroom, and Christine Sullivan of Whittier, Calif., sister-in-law of the bride. The trio appeared in frocks identical to the honor maid's in pastel shades of yellow, green and peach.

Carrie Zimmerman, the 7-year-old daughter of the Frank Zimmermans of Maurice, La., was flowergirl at her aunt's wedding. Her little floor-length dress was in a blue floral design and also fashioned with slit sleeves. She wore baby's breath in her hair and carried a basket filled with carnations and roses.

The bridegroom chose his brother, Alan Abdo of Romulus, to serve as best man. Others on the esquire side were Alfred A. Sullivan Jr. of Whittier, Calif. and Brian Sullivan of Ypsilanti, brothers of the bride, and Bill Cuhnan of Detroit.

Wellers Carriage House in Saline was reserved for the reception which followed. The 200 guests were greeted by Mrs. Sullivan in a blue flowered dress and Mrs. Abdo in a dark blue ensemble. Both mothers were presented with orchid corsages.

The newlyweds, who are making their home at 36781 Bibbins, Romulus, are teachers in the Romulus Community Schools. The new Mrs. Abdo, an alumna of Lansing Catholic Central, graduated from Eastern Michigan University in 1977 and is now working toward her master's degree at the University of Michigan.

Her husband, a 1971 graduate of Romulus High School, is a 1976 alumnus of Grand Valley State College. He, too, is doing graduate work but at Eastern Michigan University.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL G. ABDO

VB Garden Club kicks off season at luncheon-meet

Luncheon at the Centurian Restaurant in the Lakewood Plaza opened the 1979-80 season for members of the Van Buren Garden Club. Festivities began when Mrs. Frank Prais was selected as "Queen for the Day" in appreciation for the work she has done and the enthusiasm she shows toward the club.

During the business meeting new program books were distributed and programs planned for the year, including events of the district, were discussed.

Mrs. Thomas Russell, the hostess, then introduced Robert Simmons of Stein's Flower Shop and Greenhouse, Inc. in Wayne who demonstrated the art of floral arrangements. Simmons, who grew up in this area, has been fascinated by flowers since he was a youngster and though his college studies prepared him for a totally different career, he always returned to his first interest.

His discussion began with an explanation of the use of "Oasis" and how, when saturated, it is 90 percent water and serves to keep flowers fresh as well as holding them in place. His first creation, set in a round bowl and following the round lines, was Edwardian bouquet consisting of Baker fern, mums, geraniums, carnations and statice. These flowers were chosen since they could be found in an average garden and, therefore, members could easily duplicate the bouquet using their own flowers.

The white mums could be replaced with daisies, the carnations could be roses or asters, and the yellow and orange mums could be marigolds.

In keeping with the idea of using home grown flowers, his second design was of gladiolas and Boston fern, once again with geranium blossoms. His third design was set into a small pitcher and bowl and was orange and yellow mums with fern.

As his fingers deftly handled the flowers, he pointed out that there are fashion trends in flower arranging as in everything else. At the present, a more natural arrangement is "in" and tortured styles featuring flowers wired into unnatural positions or dyed with unnatural colors were "out". He good-naturedly answered questions as he went along and offered hints such as using the sucker growth of lilac bushes as greenery in bouquets, or the leaves of the aluminum plant with orchids for an exotic arrangement.

His final demonstration was the making of two corsages which were presented to Mrs. Molik, the president, and Mrs. Horste, the vice-president. The Edwardian bouquet was presented to Mrs. Prais and the gladiola arrangement to the hostess. The petite design in the pitcher was judged exactly the right size for a hospital table and was delivered to Mrs. Louis Strauss at Beyer Hospital.

At the October meeting, members will bring an arrangement of their own design so they may practice what they learned from Simmons. This meeting will be Oct. 2 at the home of Mrs. Horste.

Altar date set

The engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Thekla Demetriou, and John F. Szlinis are announced by George and Ann Demetriou of Wayne who operate the Golden Boy Restaurants in Belleville and Wayne. The bride-elect graduated from Taylor Center High School in 1975, spent two years at Henry Ford Community College and is now employed at Golden Boy Restaurant in Belleville. Her fiancé, the son of William J. and Ann Szlinis of Belleville, is a 1975 alumnus of Belleville High School currently in his junior year at Eastern Michigan University. He is employed at National Bank of Detroit in Brownstown. The couple have reserved St. Constantine and St. Helen Church in Detroit for their Oct. 21 altar date.

BPW Club announces Oct. plans

The next regular meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) will be held Oct. 1. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. at Faith United Methodist Church of Denton.

Woman of the Year and Business Women's Week committee members will be in charge.

The "Woman of the Year" award for 1979-80 will be announced by chairman Mary Ferrett. Guest speaker will be Dorothy McAllen of Farmington, a Michigan State Trooper who was Young Careerist 1979 state finalist and is 1979-80

Young Career Woman Special Committee chairman.

Business Women's Week is Oct. 21-27 and club plans will be announced by Irene Whalen and Georgia Badgett, co-chairmen, and their committee, Bea Boldt, Ruth Davis and Ginnie Bruder.

Guests are welcome by reservation. Phone Mary Ferrett at 697-5301 or Gwen Ashe at 699-5030 to make arrangements.

The BPW's annual fall rummage sale will be held starting at 9 a.m. Sept. 29 at the Masonic Temple, 515 Main St., Belleville.

ARE FLOWERS STILL APPROPRIATE FOR A FUNERAL?

A remembrance of flowersexpresses the spirit of the heart often so hard to put into words. Flowers convey a respect to the departed and an expression of caring to the bereaved. During the time of deep sorrow, flowers become the visible expression of sympathy and love, adding a background of warmth and beauty to the funeral setting. Flowers, like the divine words of scripture, speak of life and love which are eternal. They soften the sad picture of death and add their fragrance and beauty to cheer the bereaved.

Though fleeting in physical life, the beauty of flowers lives on in memory and is often considered a symbol of eternity. When ordering flowers, be specific about the type you want and the expense. It is an added courtesy to request that your full name and address be written on the back of the presentation card to help the bereaved when the acknowledgment cards are sent to you.

EMU professor says

People should stress likeness

Children are children and they can be cruel to those they perceive as being "different."

And some children grow into adulthood carrying those same stereotypes and biases. Is it any wonder then, that some individuals have gone to court to prevent the creation in their communities of group homes for the mentally and physically handicapped?

Dr. Nora Martin, an associate professor of special education at Eastern Michigan University, feels that people should stress how they are alike, not how they differ.

"We shouldn't put the focus on what individuals can't do, but on what they can do. From a humanistic point of view, I feel that mentally impaired people were born to certain things, I just think certain things are theirs."

"I know we have to be extremely careful about who runs these group homes but we need to talk about what the handicapped are doing rather than what they can't do," Martin said. "We're more alike than we are different. If we grab on to how we are so much alike and go from there, that would solve a lot of our problems."

Martin has taught in the public school setting, working with mentally impaired youngsters. Now she trains special education teachers at EMU and is an expert on learning disabilities. She gives workshops nationwide on teaching mentally impaired and learning disabled individuals as well as students in regular classrooms.

Martin explains that the area of learning disabilities is relatively new. The learning disabled child was recognized in the middle 1960s, she says.

"Teachers were noticing that there was a child who was showing emotional and learning problems but, when tested, it was discovered that they were not retarded and were not primarily disturbed. But they still had learning problems."

"We found out that they were mainly perceptual-type problems. So, at that time in 1965 or 1966, these kids were referred to as having perceptual development problems rather than learning disabilities," Martin explained.

She added that Michigan, New York, California and Illinois are regarded as the most advanced states for treatment of the learning disabled.

The learning disabled child has normal intelligence and may even be gifted.

"I always use the example that they can spell a word aloud, but can't put it on paper so their learning disability would be in the motor area. There might be another child who can write it but can't spell it aloud. They're the kind of children that oftentimes, their perceptual difficulties will mask what they really have going for them. A lot of them have time problems, they might not know seasons."

Possible causes for a learning disability are numerous, Martin said.

"Some people think a learning disability might be the result of a mild brain injury. Some think it's due to a critical period in a child's life, in other words developmental lag. Others think it's the result of poor teaching or a poor environment."

Martin explained that, in the past, there was a tendency to say that a learning disability could be the result of "minimal brain damage."

She added: "We're very careful not to say that minimal brain damage is the cause of learning disabilities. Some people say that's like saying minimally pregnant. Either you're pregnant or you're not."

In addition to her EMU teaching duties, Martin addresses workshops all over the country on child development, learning styles, teaching techniques for both regular and special education students and workshops for administrators. She also finds time to address reading conferences and church groups.

Once or twice a month, she works with teachers of severely emotionally impaired children at Detroit Psychiatric Institute, helping to plan educational programs.

Martin enjoys her speaking and consulting duties because she is able to "keep my hands on kids." She added that she will often visit the children beforehand in a school where she is scheduled to speak to teachers.

"You're not effective unless you work with the children," she said.

Recently, Martin has been very busy giving workshops on mainstreaming, that is, the process of incorporating special education youngsters into so-called regular classrooms.

She admitted that some teachers of regular classrooms have had a difficult time adjusting to the concept.

"Mainstreaming is just one small part of that concept called least restrictive environment. Many people think mainstreaming is all of it, but it's one choice. We are mandated to give special education children what we call the least restrictive environment."

Nora Martin

"Now for some kids, this means mainstreaming. For other children, they just have to say in a self-contained room, there's no doubt about it. For others it means having a consultant."

"What I would like to be played up more is that kids and educators, regular as well as special educators, need some choices," Martin says.

Martin earned a bachelor's and master's degree from EMU and a doctorate from the University of Michigan. She is married, has three children, and lives in Westland.

Among her many professional activities, she is a member of the Blue Ribbon Committee for Learning Disabilities for the State Board of Education, co-chairperson of the minority affairs division of the Michigan Association for Retarded Citizens and president-elect of the Inkster chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Library has new collection

The Romulus Public Library announces a new collection of preschool toys which may be checked out of the library. The group, including puzzles, wooden and educational toys, was donated by the Romulus Jaycee Auxiliary.

The Friends of the Romulus Library made the cloth bags in which the toys may be taken home. A catalog of the toys will be available at the desk and items may be checked out by adults for their children.

For further information, call the library at 941-0775.

Bradleys mark golden wedding

Their 50th year of marriage was observed Sept. 14 by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bradley of 7181 Burton, Romulus, residents of the area for the past 32 years.

A native of Chippewa County in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, Mr. Bradley took Margaret Bradley of Prestonburg, Ky. as his bride on Sept. 14, 1929 at Sault St. Marie, Mich.

From their union, 16 children were born: Mrs. Ray (Helen) Lefler of Romulus; Eugene of Taylor; Mrs. Myron (Joyce) Scherich of Wayne; Henry of Brownstown Township; John of Westland; Mrs. Henry (Pauline) Keys of Taylor; Paul of Westland; Dick of Belleville; Frank of Wayne; Larry and George of Romulus; Mrs. Robert (Pat) Lanier of Romulus; Mrs. Don (Vicky) Coletta of Wayne; George and Dennis and Debbie, all of Romulus. They also have 34 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren in their family.

Before settling in Romulus, the Bradleys lived in Inkster, Redford Township and Livonia. An employee of the Wayne County Road Commission for some 33 years, Mr. Bradley retired in 1967 and now enjoys fishing and traveling with his wife. He is a member of the Wayne County Road Association and she is affiliated with the Baptist Church.

Versatility with vegetables

Some people have a "way" with meat cookery; others are known for their touches with a pastry or pie. But seldom do you hear about someone who really knows how to do things with vegetables. Vegetables take on new life when they meet up with Good Seasons salad dressing mixes.

Prepare a package of frozen vegetables — asparagus spears, broccoli spears, cauliflower or Italian green beans — according to directions and drain well. Then, pour ½ cup prepared Good Seasons garlic or onion salad dressing over the hot vegetable. Chill at least 3 hours. Serve on lettuce or garnish with onion rings for an interesting vegetable side salad.

Add new interest and flavor to potatoes with an envelope of Good Seasons onion salad dressing mix. Peel six baking potatoes and cut into quarters or thick slices. Dry on absorbent paper, then place in large bowl. Sprinkle with salad dressing mix, poured right from the envelope, and three slices of bacon, coarsely chopped. Transfer the mixture to a shallow baking pan and bake at 425 degrees for about 45 minutes.

This makes six servings and is a tasty accompaniment to broiled chicken, fish or baked pork chops.

Any day is the day to try something different with chicken. Using a marinade of fruit juice, salad dressing mix and oil turns everyday chicken into a gourmet delight. Combine one-third cup grapefruit juice with an envelope of Good Seasons Italian or old fashion French salad dressing mix in a cruet or jar with a tight-fitting lid. Cover and shake well. Then add one-third cup salad oil, cover and shake again. Pour over 2 to 3 pounds of frying chicken pieces, cover and let marinate in refrigerator at least six hours or overnight. Broil chicken about 15 minutes on each side or to desired doneness, basting occasionally. This amount makes four servings and the unusual flavor should make it a family favorite.

Music always has been an intimate part of everyday life in all the countries of the world. To enhance our appreciation and enjoyment of music, we should recognize that the so-called "classics" are works which, like the great cathedrals, have stood the test of time. This is because they are wellbuilt as to idea, form and decoration. Some basic definitions are themes, which are small musical ideas; and form, which is the orderly plan or design of a composition. Also, program music tells a story or paints a definite picture whereas absolute music describes moods (such as merry, peaceful, sad, and mysterious).

Whether your musical background is classical or modern, you'll find DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484 can meet your complete musical needs with concerned personal service. Trainer claims dual circus roles

Charly Baumann has a demanding dual role with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, which begins its engagement at Cobo Arena in Detroit on Oct. 9 for performances through Oct. 21.

Not only does he put 15 Bengal tigers through their paces in the Big Cage, but Baumann also is the performance director of the 108th Edition of The Greatest Show on Earth, an assignment which can be more taxing than his encounters with the big cats.

In that capacity, Baumann is responsible for the smooth running of the show, precision timing in all three rings, and the general welfare and harmony of the entire international family of Circus artists, a job which utilizes all his talents as diplomat, task-master and confidant.

Baumann, a veteran of more than 25 years of wild animal training and son of a German movie stuntman, began his career as an assistant groom in a Hamburg circus. His introduction to wild animal training came when he rushed in to rescue a trainer who was being mauled by a cageful of lions. This spontaneous display of bravery elected him as successor to the injured performer, and Charly's future was decided.

He traveled with European circuses, working first with lions and then tigers. Word of his outstanding tiger act reached executives at Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, and in 1964, Charly Baumann brought his expertise to this country to entertain American audiences at The Greatest Show on Earth.

Along with his responsibilities in-cage and out, Baumann also breeds Bengal tigers and trains them for his act. In spite of four very close calls and multiple scars inflicted by the big cats, Charly is by his own admission "200 percent circus."

Tickets are on sale at Cobo Arena Box Office, Hudson's and Olympia Travel in Birmingham. Ticket prices are $7, $6.50, $5.50 and $4.50.

CHARLY BAUMANN

Cincinnati Ballet Company will perform at Eastern

The Cincinnati Ballet Company, a professional company of 24 dancers lauded for its varied repertoire of modern dance and ballets in classic, romantic and contemporary styles, will perform at Eastern Michigan University at 8:30 p.m. Saturday in Pease Auditorium as part of the University's 1979-80 Guest Artist Series, sponsored by the Office of Campus Life.

The ballet company, currently performing in its 17th season, has toured more than 150 cities throughout the United States and Latin America in addition to numerous professional appearances in Cincinnati and the tri-state area of Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana. The ballet performs in Cincinnati's historic Music Hall during its 5-week home season.

At Eastern, the company will perform four selections from its current active repertoire.

The EMU program will begin with a performance of "Pas De Dix," a divertissement (a ballet suite used as an interlude) of solo variations and ensembles selected from the final act of "Raymonda."

Following the intermission the company will perform "Concerto Barocco," a dance choreographed by George Balanchine to music composed by Johann Sebastian Bach. The ballet is an abstract symphonic dance to Bach's Concerto for Two Violins in D Minor and attempts to interest the audience in the dancing and the treatment of music through "decorative elements." The work was first produced in 1940.

"Concerto Barocco" will also be followed by a 15 minute intermission.

The company's third selection for the EMU performance is titled "Grand Pas De Deux" from "Silvia," another work choreographed by Frederick Franklin to a musical composition by Leon Delibes. The dance features Donna Grisez and Richard Earley from the company and will be followed by a 5-minute interval.

The company's final performance on the EMU stage will be "Concert Waltzes," which was first produced by the American Dance Foundation in New York City in 1978 to music by Alexander Glazounov, a 19th century Russian composer. The dance has been described as "a lively and buoyant ballroom piece" and "a work reminiscent in its sweeping style and grand manner to works staged by the masters George Balanchine and Frederick Ashton" by Arlene Croce, a leading American dance critic.

Tickets for the Cincinnati Ballet Company's performance are $4 and $7.50 for the general public; students and senior citizens will be admitted for $4 and $5.50.

As an added feature of the 1979-80 Guest Artist Series, the EMU Office of Campus Life has arranged a reservation-only buffet supper which will be served at 6:30 p.m. on the evening of each performance. The buffet will be held in McKenny Union and features Carved Roast Baron of Beef and Seafood Newburg with accompanying beverages, appetizers, side dishes and desserts. The dinner is $8.95 for adults; $5 for children. Tickets for the pre-performance buffet may be purchased with concert tickets.

For additional information on the ballet performance, or the complete schedule of performances for the 1979-80 Guest Artist Series, call the EMU Office of Campus Life at 487-3045.

Color tour guide offered

Michigan's forestland areas are just about to change their colors from green to brilliant.

The changing forest colors are possibly the most photographed of Michigan's many natural attractions. The season starts in east Michigan at the Straits of Mackinac, usually the last week of September.

To help guide travelers in the east Michigan region this year, the East Michigan Tourist Association has produced a colorful map with five recommended color tours. They include all of the 26 counties encompassing the central and eastern portions of the state north of Flint and Lansing.

The tours are easy to follow on freeways, major U.S. and state trunklines and numbered county roads. Many of the popular tourist towns are included on the tour maps affording fine accommodations, restaurants, attractions and shopping opportunities.

One-, 2- and 3-day trips are listed; it would take two weeks to travel all the tours described. Mid-week is the recommended time according to the tourist attraction experts as roads and communities are less crowded.

The full color guide is available without charge by writing Color Tour Guide, EMTA Log Office, Bay City 48706, or calling toll free 1-800-895-8823.

The Hayseed Revolution...

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

They are calling it the "hayseed revolution" — this latest population shift away from the big cities and the urban "rat-race" to the small town.

Do these emigres from the metropolitan centers know something about happiness that we confirmed city dwellers don't know? Or are they being taken in by the current nostalgia kick that has made us wistful for "the good old days" when life was lived at a slower pace?

Were "the good old days" really better? Or do they just seem better in retrospect?

All of us, of course, can recall unhappy times in our past, somehow those times don't seem as bad as what we are going through today. Old troubles mastered — no matter how big — never seem as painful as current troubles unmastered — no matter how small.

So we long for the Happy Days of Yesteryear, as we call them.

In his book, "This is How It Was," William Leubenstein recalls his growing-up years in Minersville, Penna.

He looks back fondly to those days when "a penny bought candy "fried eggs" in a tiny tin pan or a sugared waffle hot off the griddle ... when the Fourth of July meant firecrackers and a big parade and Decoration Day meant honoring the dead ... when movies cost a nickel ... when the Old Reliable was better than the New Improved ... when the farmer came to the door and the doctor came to the patient ..."

In the Minersville of that day, at the turn of the century, "people went to church, begot children and were taken care of in their old age by their children. And they died, were decently mourned and were buried in family plots. It was all unhurried and unhurried."

Yes — but wasn't it frightfully dull?

I think there is no doubt that life today is more interesting. And more comfortable. We wouldn't want to go back to the days before indoor plumbing and central heating.

But in some ways, surely, the old days were better, and if we can stop

"A happy life must be to a great extent a quiet life for it is only in an atmosphere of quiet that true joy can live."

G.K. Chesterton seemed to have something similar in mind when he said of one of his heroes, "He knew what all romantics know, that adventures always happen on dull days."

Russell recommended a life in which monotony played a part. Constructive purposes, he said, don't form themselves in a mind full of constant distractions.

For this reason, said the great British philosopher, "a generation that cannot endure boredom will be a generation of little men."

Did he mean us?

Life was slower in the old days and people "took time."

The elderly play an important role in our lives — or ought to — not because we "need their wisdom and experience." We don't need that. We need the "serene example" of those who now "only stand and wait."

Little children often prefer their grandparents to their parents because grandparents aren't always running off to do things.

As one 8-year-old girl said, "Everybody should have a grandmother, especially if you don't have a TV, because grandmas are the only grownups who have got time."

At any rate, the "hayseed revolution" has definite theological implications.

A "hayseed revolution" may be just what we need to bring on a spiritual revolution and a return to the "simple Christianity" of the Gospels.

Letter carrier feted at retirement party

A dinner party at Leright's Banquet Room in Westland Sept. 12 marked the retirement of Verne Clark, a 29-year employee of the U. S. Postal System in Belleville, where he worked as a rural letter carrier for Route 4.

Some 61 fellow employees, friends and relatives were on hand for the meal and program emceed by Don Ellis.

Clark has been an area softball league umpire for some 10 years and is a member of the Belleville Moose Lodge. He and his wife, Blanche, now plan to move to their new home in Florida.

Among those attending were the honoree's daughter, Sharon Clark, her fiancé, Steve Susick, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Susick of Lathrup Village; Mr. and Mrs. Al Kirby of Novi, and Mr. and Mrs. Rick Copp, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Gagneau, all of Belleville.

Retired postal employees joining in the celebration were Bob Whalen and his wife, Leota, and Don Bieszke, all of Belleville.

Eutrophication meeting to be held on Oct. 13

Are you concerned with pollution, weed growth, and declining fish populations in your lake? Get the answers to proper lake management at the Inland Lake Eutrophication Conference to be held Saturday, Oct. 13, at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College. The College is located off I-696 — take the Orchard Lake Road exit going south and turn right to enter the campus grounds.

Specialists from Michigan State University will cover such topics as: diagnosing water quality problems and correcting them, disposing of weeds by use of harvesters or weed killers, fish management, how to control development and pollution around lakes, and where to go for assistance in solving lake problems.

The conference registration fee of $10 covers the educational sessions, lunch, refreshment breaks, and conference proceedings. For more information, contact Gerald Draheim, P.O. Box 550, Wayne, MI 48184. Phone (313) 721-6550 in the afternoon.

The golf course at Willow Metropark, located between Flat Rock and New Boston, will remain open through November.

The 18-hole course, covers 6,830 yards and is a par 72. Course hours are 7:30 a.m. on weekdays, and earlier on weekends.

Weekend and holiday rates are 18 holes for $7 and 9 holes for $4; weekdays 18 holes for $6 and 9 holes for $3.50.

Golfers must provide their own equipment, however, power carts, hand carts and a limited line of golf accessories are available at the Starter Trailer. A small snack bar offers limited food service and there is space for more than 100 cars at the parking lot.

2. In Memoriam

OUR SON "JERRY" is missed awfully by us and his friends. HOWARD WATKINS FAMILY.

HANDSHAKING in public life... the world record was set by President Theodore Roosevelt, who shook hands with 8513 people at a New Year's Day White House Presentation in 1907. Placing an ad in Associated Newspapers is like saying hello to 46,000 people. No matter what you have to sell, your message goes far with a Want Ad. Call 729-4000.

LEGAL NOTICES

NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations

ACTION: Proposed rule.
SUMMARY: Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (100-year) flood elevations listed below for selected locations in the nation. These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).
DATES: The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in each community.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. R. Gregg Chappell, National Flood Insurance Program (202) 426-1460 or Toll Free Line (800) 424-8872 (In Alaska and Hawaii call Toll Free Line (800) 424-9080) Room 5150, 451 Seventh Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20410.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Federal Insurance Administrator gives notice of the proposed determinations of base (100-year) flood elevations for selected locations in the nation, in accordance with section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 960, which added section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 44 CFR Part 67.4 (a)). These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by section 60.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State or Regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents. The proposed base (100-year) flood elevations for selected locations are:

State	City/Town/County	Source of Flooding	Location	Depth in feet above ground *Elevation in feet (NGVD)
Michigan	Wayne (c)	Bingell Drain	Just downstream of Michigan Avenue	Michigan Avenue 655'
	Wayne county		Just upstream of Westbound Lanes 655'	Westbound Lanes 655'
			Approximately 550 feet downstream of Eastbound Lanes 658'	Eastbound Lanes 658'
			Just downstream of Hannan Road 660'	Hannan Road 660'
			Just downstream of Hannan Road 662'	Hannan Road 662'

RESOLUTION
Commissioner Burton moved the adoption of the following Resolution:
WHEREAS, pursuant to petition and in accordance with the provisions of Section 18, Chapter IV, Act No. 283 of the Public Acts of 1909, as amended, this Board, by Resolution dated April 13, 1978, set a date of hearing on said petition and directed a Hearing Examiner to hold said hearing; and
WHEREAS, said hearing was held at the time and place appointed and the Board has considered the Findings of Fact as reported by its Hearing Examiner concerning the advisability of discontinuing that part of Rawsonville Rd. as dedicated to the use of the public in NEWMAN, OR CHARDS a subdivision of part of the N.W. 1/4 of Section 19, T. 3 S., R. 8 E., Van Buren Twp., Wayne County, Mich., as recorded in Liber 48 of Plats on Page 22 of Wayne County Records, which is described as follows: Beginning at a point on the west line of Lot 7 distant S. 0 degrees 32'30" E., 1048.21 feet and N. 89 degrees 27'30" E., 60.00 feet from the northwest corner of the subdivision and proceeding thence S. 0 degrees 32'30" E., 413.20 feet along the west line of Lots 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7; thence N. 20 degrees 54'11" W., 172.44 feet; thence N. 0 degrees 32'30" W., 229.27 feet along the subdivision line; thence N. 89 degrees 27'30" E., 60.00 feet to the point of beginning; and
WHEREAS, the premises were viewed in accordance with said statute.
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that it is the best interest of the public that the above-described county road or portion thereof be absolutely abandoned and discontinued and that said road or portion thereof is hereby absolutely abandoned and discontinued, reserving therein an easement for public utilities and sewer purposes.
The motion was supported by Commissioner Herron and carried by the following vote:
AYES: Commissioners Burton and Herron.
NAYS: None.

EARL KEIM REALTY

Home is the place where character is built, where sacrifices for the happiness of others are made, and where love has taken its abode.

A home should be a stockade, a refuge for the flaming arrows of anxiety, tension and worry.

A place to drop your cares, to find happiness and realize the wisdom of simplicity.

A place to gather your family together, where dinnertime can be a time of candlelight, music and conversation, serious and gay. Share a great thought and discuss it. Say a prayer of thankfulness for your blessings.

Home is the place to prepare for tomorrow, that you may go forth as a new person, with a new spirit, to meet triumphantly the challenges of the outside world.

We here at KEIM have many houses - but we need YOU to make them a home. Call or stop by today to see our fine selections.

GIVES SAFETY TIPS

Using Parking Lights While Driving Among Unsafe Practice, Says APAA

A running vehicle should never have its parking lights on — even if that is legal in the state.

This is one of the several tips offered by the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association aimed at reducing sometimes-fatal accidents.

"Many motorists switch on their car's parking lights at the first sign of dusk," said APAA's director of government affairs, Linda J. Hoffman. "This is illegal in many states, and unsafe in all of them."

The reason, Hoffman said, is that parking lights can be mistaken by an oncoming motorist for headlights.

"Thinking that the other car is further away than it actually is, the motorist may attempt a left-hand turn or may think there is room to pass another car."

Railroad tracks provide another opportunity for danger. "Buses and trucks have to stop at railroad crossings. If you are following one," Hoffman said, "assume that it will."

Other railroad crossing safety tips:

— Always expect a train on any track at any time, day or night.

— If a line of traffic is on the other side of the crossing, make sure your car will be able to clear the tracks with room to spare.

— Lightning sometimes strikes twice. Don't assume that because one train crossed there won't be another coming.

— Wait until the gates are raised fully before crossing.

Additional advice from the APAA official concerned turn signals and right-of-ways.

"Use turn signals whenever you change lanes," Hoffman advised. "And if there is any question as to whom has the right of way, YOU be the one to yield."

A final bit of advice from the APAA official: "Be as careful and as alert while driving as you would if you had a loaded weapon in your hand."

Preventing Rust Worth $100 Year to Car Owners

Is the body of your car beginning to resemble swiss cheese?

Cars are rusting faster than ever, due in part to the approximately nine million tons of salt used on the roads yearly. The severity of last winter's weather may have set a record for salt use.

According to the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association, rust and corrosion can add $100 a year to a car's depreciation.

APAA estimates that there are more than 50 million cars in the "salt belt," that area of the country where chlorides are used to maintain traffic flow during freezing months.

While these compounds are excellent at keeping roads and streets passable and safe, they do considerable damage to the unprotected vehicles that travel treated roads.

Rusting cars are expensive to their owners and even dangerous.

Yet preventive treatments by a rust-proofing service or a do-it-yourself within the first 3,000 miles of the vehicle's purchase can eliminate the problems.

Many rust-proofing companies do an excellent job of providing this service for auto and truck owners. Because rust-proofing is a high-labor job involving skill, time, patience and a relatively low-cost product, the charge for this service must be sufficient to pay for the labor, material and a modest profit for the operator of the service.

The charge, however, is one that most owners defer or forego completely. This is, in reality, a poor business decision. The charge of $100 to $130 is one that is returned many times in the form of higher resale value for the vehicles, reduced or eliminated need for body work and cosmetic repairs, better frame protection in a crash, and a reduction of squeaks and rattles during the period of car ownership.

In three years, a treated car in the salt belt can be worth $300-$500 more than an untreated car.

For do-it-yourselfers, do-it-yourself rust-proofing kits have been developed that, used and applied as directed, will give the same measure of protection as professionally applied treatments, at about a fifth or less of the cost.

They can even halt rust on older cars where rust problems have already begun. Cars of unitized construction especially need this treatment, particularly if they are expected to be used into advance age.

For periodic maintenance, APAA advises that you keep your car clean, wax at least twice a year, and always wash your car as soon as feasible after driving in the rain, snow or slush. The wash water carries away those corrosive chemicals that cause rust.

After washing, leave car doors ajar for a few minutes to permit water drainage. Dry thoroughly.

If you live in an area where sand and salts are used on roads, hose down the underside twice a year. If you live in sand country, flush the underside of the vehicle. Be sure to keep the drain holes in the bottom of the car doors open.

BATTERY BUYING MADE EASY Getting Old?

"If your car's battery isn't cranking the way it should and you suspect that the problem is simply its age, it's time to consider buying a new one."

First, be sure you know the outside dimensions of your present battery. A new battery should be neither too small nor too large for the holder.

Next, check the voltage by counting the cells in your present battery. If there are six cells, you have a 12-volt battery; three cells means six volts.

Finally, a replacement battery should have at least as much capacity as the original, particularly if your engine is especially hard to start or if the car has several electrical accessories.

Unless you are getting ready to trade in your car, get a heavy-duty battery. A really good battery doesn't cost too much more than a cheap one.

GIVE EMERGENCY ASSISTANCE

How CB Groups Aid Motorists

The most important reason for purchasing a citizens band radio is personal safety. Every day, CB radio operators are reporting traffic problems, drunken drivers, motorists requiring emergency or other assistance, and criminal activity.

There are three well-known citizens band groups devoted to public service.

The best-known is REACT International, 11 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago IL 60601. REACT (for Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams) operates through its more than 1,000 clubs. Each club agrees to monitor Channel 9, the emergency channel, 24 hours a day.

The teams set their own dues, of which $2 goes to REACT International. To find the club nearest you, contact REACT, which will send a list to you.

Another group is the American Citizens Band Operators Association, 438 Baltimore St., Gettysburg, PA 17325 (800/233-0761, a toll-free number). ACBOA operates ALI RT (Affiliated League of Emergency Radio Teams), which is similar to REACT.

ACBOA, however, caters more to individuals. You don't have to be a member of a club. Dues are $12 a year plus a first-year-only initiation fee of $6. For this, you receive a membership card and other materials, a $2,000 life insurance policy and a nine-times-a-year magazine.

An important service of ACBOA is its legislative activities on behalf of CB operators. It's no coincidence that its home is in Gettysburg, center of the Federal Communication Commission's citizens band activities.

Another group for the individual CB operator is the American Federation of Police's Citizens Band Radio Posse, 1100 N.E. 12th St., North Miami FL 33161.

The AFP is dedicated toward tying CB operators closer to police and CB Posse members agree to obey traffic rules, conduct themselves as examples for other CB operators, assist motorists in distress and report any criminal activity to police.

Posse members also pledge to carry in their cars a first-aid kit, warning flags, and a hand fire extinguisher.

At no time is a member to take the law into his own hands, the AFP warns.

The $16 dues covers the cost of membership and identification materials and bumper sticker.

State and local police across the nation have been implementing programs using CB operators as additional eyes and ears. The Department of Transportation's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) recently decided to take advantage of the network of 20 million CB radios.

NHTSA announced a program of funding communications equipment for police so that they can work with CB operators to assist motorists.

CB Safety Tips Given

Cooler temperatures inside or outside their cars involve an extra driving risk for owners of citizen band radios, the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association says.

A trucking company recently warned its drivers not to get so involved with their CB radio conversations that they forget to watch traffic. The same advice applies to drivers of other vehicles.

Radio, tape player and citizens band radio volume should be low enough for drivers to hear sirens and other traffic sounds clearly.

Many CB operators drive with their windows closed either because the air conditioning is working in their car or because the weather outside the car is cool. Closed windows compound the problem of muffling traffic noise.

"CB radios help car owners save gas by warning them of traffic problems and increase their safety by keeping them in touch with other motorists," a spokesman for the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association notes.

"Motorists should keep their eyes and ears open and stay alert even if they don't have CB radios."

Rust Kills Thousands Of Autos

Tens of thousands of cars are scrapped each year simply because rust and corrosion have eaten away too much of their sheet metal and weakened their frames.

Even in coastal areas outside the "salt belts," salt-laden air eats away at perfectly good vehicles, making them candidates for the junk heap before their time.

Severe rusting of sheet metal components could result in jagged metal edges that wear down electrical wiring and cause shorts and failures in those circuits.

Severe rusting also may cause trunk floor pans to fail, resulting in the loss of the trunk's contents such as wheel-changing equipment, tools and personal belongings.

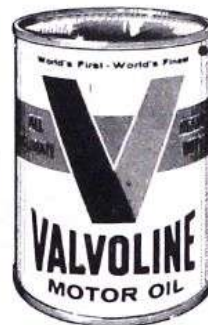

Rust problems could cause gas tank supporting straps to split and drop the tank on the road.

Rust problems may cause floor pans to rot away and admit carbon monoxide fumes into the passenger compartment, sometimes with fatal results.

Oil Changes Make Dollars & Sense

Many motorists are baffled when it comes to selecting the proper motor oil and deciding when to change the oil and oil filter.

The wrong kind of oil, a tired oil, too much or too little oil can adversely affect an otherwise healthy engine. Here are a few tips from the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association to help you.

The first step in selecting the proper oil is understanding the meaning of such terms on the oil can as SAE 10W, SAE 30, SAE 10W-30, SE, etc.

SAE are the initials of the Society of Automotive Engineers, which established the viscosity (thickness) grading system for oils.

The higher the number, the thicker the oil. A high viscosity grade such as SAE 30 or 40 is thick enough to protect a hot engine. A low viscosity grade such as 10W is thin enough for cold morning starts and faster oil circulation.

The numbers preceding a W indicate an oil with low temperature performance characteristics, one that is specially suited to wintertime use.

If there is one number, such as 5 or 10, it is a single-viscosity or single-grade oil. Two numbers indicate a multi-grade oil which has wide viscosity range properties to satisfy both low and high temperature requirements.

Quality is indicated by an API (for American Petroleum Institute) service classification using dual letters.

These letters generally mean that the oil meets or exceeds established standards for use in gasoline engines (indicated by S and a following letter. C refers to diesel and commercial engines and can be ignored by car owners).

Five service classifications cover gasoline-powered spark ignition engines — SA, SB, SC, SD and SE. In 1971, these replaced the ML, MM and MS classifications which you may find mentioned in some car owner's manuals and other literature.

An oil's quality rating is listed on the can. Oils rated SE fulfill the warranty requirements of 1972-and-newer cars.

Because newer cars have additional emission controls and higher operating temperatures, they require a top-quality oil to function properly. SE oils provide maximum protection against oil oxidation, high temperature engine deposits, rust and corrosion.

If your car is an older model and the owner's manual specifies SC or SD oil, the API says you can use SE oil for even better results. SD ratings apply to 1968-70 models and SC is for 1964-67 cars and some trucks.

On the lower end of the scale, SA denotes straight mineral oil and SB, a lubricant offering only slight protection without the detergents found in SC, SD and SE oils.

Check your owner's manual to make sure the oil meets your car's requirements.

As indicated by the attached chart, more than one oil is usable at any one temperature. What is best for your car?

A number of considerations should influence your decision, including the kind of driving you will be doing.

A single grade 10W is all right for limited winter driving in colder parts of the country but, for a long winter trip with a heavy load, you should have a multi-grade oil to provide both high temperature protection and cold start capability.

If you prefer not to change oil seasonally, select the proper multi-grade oil for the area in which you drive.

Once the right motor oil is selected, there are other considerations that will maximize the oil's performance.

Change oil regularly, as directed by your owner's manual. The manual will remind you to change at least twice as often if you drive under severe conditions. There is a relationship between the frequency you change your car's oil and the length of your car's lifetime.

Don't let the oil get too low. Have it checked every time you buy gas. Don't forget to check it yourself when you stop at a self-service station.

Keep your engine tuned. A poorly tuned engine can excessively contaminate its oil with soot and unburned fuel.

Change the oil filter at least as often as your owner's manual recommends. If you don't change the filter often enough, it can plug up, allowing unfiltered oil to circulate through the engine.

Car makers usually suggest changing the oil filter every other oil change. Filter manufacturers have a strong argument when they say that this leaves a quart of dirty oil in the system if the filter isn't changed every time.

Oil is your car's life's blood. Keep it clean and change it often. Your reward will be considerably fewer engine problems.

Engine Oil Changes Make Dollars & Sense

Would you like your car to last more than 100,000 miles? More than 200,000? How about more than 300,000? Car owners have accomplished this, and here are their secrets.

An owner of a car with 240,000 miles on it says he washes it every day, waxes it once a week, changed oil every 1,000 to 2,000 miles at first, then switched to every 3,000 or 4,000 miles when the quality of oil improved in the 1960s.

He lubricated the chassis every 1,000 miles. When the car reached 100,000 miles, he rebuilt a major component every year, starting with the transmission. He finally sold the car for $3,500. The 1957 Thunderbird had cost him $2,400 in 1959.

A Volkswagen owner credits not driving his car hard over its 10-year life and maintenance as needed for getting it to 308,000 miles. He changed the oil every 3,000 miles and, despite rust, never washed it.

A mechanic has more than 200,000 miles on his car and he says the only secret is frequent oil changes. "I just ignore the owner's manual," he adds.

Lemon or Cream Puff? Used Car Shoppers Told How to Buy With Care

A popular theme among used car dealers is that "Everybody drives a used car!"

True — but some cars are more used than others. Spend at least as much time buying a used car as you would a new one.

First, decide in advance what you want — and stick to it. You know before you visit your first car dealership what you can afford.

Second, consider getting your car through the newspapers' want ads. While used cars purchased from the owner have to be investigated as thoroughly as those purchased from a dealership, you can get good buys that way — and you save shopping time and gasoline.

You often hear that when you are buying a used car you are buying someone else's problems. When you are buying from the original owner, you can ask him why he is selling.

The classified section of your newspaper has another advantage: By checking the listings of individuals and dealers, you can determine the age and make of cars you can afford. Note that "clean" cars bring more money when you are selling, and cost more when you are buying. They are worth the price.

Many a used car has outlasted a new car that the owner might have purchased.

Most of a car's depreciation occurs in the first two years of a car's life.

As indicated, however, the condition of a car is vastly more important than its age. There are some 20-year-old cars that are in much better shape than cars a tenth as old.

The smaller the car, the better. There is a vast difference in the number of parts of small and large cars. Generally speaking, too, the smaller car will be much more miserly on gasoline consumption.

If you plan to keep the car any length of time, you don't need all the options such as power steering, automatic transmission, power brakes, and air conditioning. They will cost you money in fuel consumption and repairs.

However, if you are merely going to fix the car for resale or keep it only a year, then resale value is important.

The best time to buy a car is during the day. Why? Because "what you see is what you get," and daylight beats artificial light, no matter how much there is of the latter.

Where can you buy a used car? Find out from friends and acquaintances who have had a satisfactory experience in purchasing one. You might even end up buying a car from a friend or acquaintance. Just make sure it's from someone who values your friendship!

The primary areas for checking a used car you might want to buy, in no particular order, are clutch, electrical systems, engine, brakes, rust, paint, latches, steering, transmission, tires, shock absorbers, wheel alignment, use, and the drive train, including the transmission, differential and universal joint.

1. Check for paint blisters, under floor mats and in the trunk. A new paint job may indicate a cover-up. Look through the car to determine if the exterior paint color is the same as the truck, door posts and other spots.

2. The odometer should indicate about 10,000 to 12,000 miles annual use. Much more than that is excessive. On the other hand, much less than that indicates excessive stop-and-go city driving, which is tough on a car.

Check the service stickers on the door panel edge and the records in the glove compartment to see if they match the odometer.

Other wear points are the driver's seat and pedals. If these are newer than the car, it should be in keeping with the car's age.

3. The tires should show even wear. Depending on the age of the car, all four tires should have been made by the same manufacturer. If the four aren't quadruplets, there is a possibility of bad wheel alignment, ball-joint suspension or other problem.

4. Check the shock absorbers by pushing down on the fenders. More than one bounce indicates that the shocks will have to be replaced.

5. Inspect each of the car's lights.

6. Check door, trunk, hood, and glove compartment latches, locked and unlocked.

7. Press the brake pedal. It should have some resistance and not travel all the way to the floor.

8. Your under-the-hood inspection should include a careful search for leaks. Look particularly at connecting points such as hoses. The radiator coolant should not look oily or rusty.

9. Now start the engine. Are the gauges and lights on the panel operating correctly? Any unusual sounds? If you hear a rattling sound when you set the emergency brake and press slightly on the accelerator, the problem is the engine bearings.

Dark gray or blue smoke issuing from the tailpipe indicates the car is an oil burner.

10. You are ready for the driving test. Check the play in the steering wheel. Is it normal? Does the automatic transmission change gears normally?

If the car has manual transmission, the gears should mesh smoothly. Drive back and forth several feet a few times while listening for any unusual sounds. For example, a clanking might indicate a bad universal joint.

11. Have someone else drive while you check the wheels for turn-in, turn-out or wobble.

12. Try to get the name of the previous owner. He can tell you of any problems he had with the car.

There is probably nothing mentioned above that sellers cannot find a way to hide temporarily — at least, until the car is in your possession. There are two ways to prevent this.

The first way, mentioned earlier, is to deal with a firm or individual that has been highly recommended to you by someone you know well.

The second is to have the car inspected by a mechanic you know. Few car buyers do this, which is why there are so many unhappy car buyers.

The dealer may claim that he lacks insurance coverage for you to drive the car you might want. That often is a legitimate claim because the costs of such coverage is skyrocketing.

Your alternative is to find a dealer who will let you have the car inspected by a third party.

The above represents a lot of work. But it takes less time and money than buying a lemon.

Car Care Month: Getting Car Ready for Summer

Welcome to "May is Car Care Month."

While this is the fifth year of the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association/Popular Mechanics co-sponsored program, it is only the second year that Car Care Month has had the participation of newspapers.

Motorists should be conscious of car care and safety anytime they are in their vehicles. May was selected as the focal point for a national campaign simply because it winds up with the first major driving weekend of the year, Memorial Day weekend.

Check your car to see whether it needs new tires, fan belt, coolant, tune-up, shock absorbers, and whether the wheels need balancing or alignment.

Now, too, is a good time to decide whether you should have a citizens band radio in case of a highway emergency.

Watch your newspaper for the best bargains in auto products and service. While it is true that you get what you pay for, sometimes you pay for more than you get!

On the other hand, if a price is too good to be true, perhaps it isn't all that good.

And is a 20-mile round trip to save $1 really a bargain?

In short, your newspaper can save you considerable shopping time. And money.

The articles in this section are aimed primarily at making you a more knowledgeable car owner and driver. Read the section now and save it for later reference.

'NEGLECT WASTES GAS'

Auto Info Council Chairman Lists Obligations of Owners

Today's motorist has obligations that go beyond the mere driving of his automobile, said Frank V. Rogers, chairman of the Automotive Information Council.

"I don't mean to minimize the importance of safe and sensible driving," the trade association executive declared, "but owners also have to be concerned about such critical subjects as energy, the environment and safety. At no time in automotive history have the responsibilities of the motorist been so great."

Rogers noted that it wasn't until a couple of years ago that there was a need to worry about the availability of gasoline. He said that ecology was a word few people knew existed a decade ago.

There are no laws that penalize a driver who wastes gasoline and only a few areas have inspection stations that measure tailpipe emissions. But, Rogers warned,

"The motorist who wastes gasoline because he neglected to maintain his car properly is only kidding himself. Hours of waiting in long lines at service stations in many of our major cities is still very fresh in our minds. It has only been a couple of years since weekend travel was sharply curtailed because gasoline was in short supply during the heaviest travel days of the summertime weeks.

"We ran short on gas before and it can happen again. For energy, we need to think 'conservation'."

While the industry has eliminated more than 80 percent of hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions in the 1977 passenger cars, the equipment that does the job has to be kept in proper working order. Rogers credited the manufacturers with producing a system that requires a minimum of operator maintenance, and cited the service industry as performing a tremendous task in keeping the more than 130 million vehicles in this country on the go. "What we are really asking of the motorist is to keep his car properly tuned and periodically checked or inspected," Rogers added.

"In the long run, each owner not only is helping other drivers but helping himself. He is going to get more miles to the gallon and he is going to breathe cleaner air."

Rogers, who also is president of A.P.S. Inc., an international parts distribution company based in Houston, Texas, said that maintenance of safety related equipment has been important since the dawn of the automotive age. "Certainly, we have accomplished a great deal in the last 10 years toward our goal of safer motoring," he said. "There have been scores of improvements like better lighting, energy absorbing steering columns, instrument panel padding, better seat and lap belts - and a lot more. Most of that equipment requires no effort by the owner but it seems to me that people would have their brakes checked before risking their lives.

"Yet, studies show that a third of the cars on the road are in need of some kind of brake service. That is not only a danger to the owner but to everyone else on the streets and highways."

Rogers conceded that motoring was a lot simpler a generation ago when all the driver had to worry about was fuel in the tank and air in the tires. "Nothing is simple any more," he said, "but when you consider all the conveniences in today's automobile, I don't think it's asking too much of people to guard their mobility with care."

Trade Group Offers Tips to New 'Doers'

Thousands of car owners join the ranks of do-it-yourselfers every day, and the trend is expected to continue, according to Julian C. Morris, executive vice president, Automotive Parts & Accessories Association (APAA).

These new "doers," as APAA calls them, should not expect to be able to perform even the simplest tasks as quickly as more-experienced car maintainers.

Here are suggestions from APAA aimed at reducing the time spent by inexperienced doers.

1. Before you start, take the time to look the task over.

2. Scrape away any accumulations of grease or dirt that conceal the outlines of those components you will be working around or have to remove.

3. Note which items you may merely have to loosen to get to those other pieces that will require removal.

4. Identify the differences in the size and location of each bolt that will require removal.

5. Now, if you have really good memory for these mental pictures, you can start the operation, putting each piece as you remove it in a suitable container, a large can or box so they do not get scattered or lost.

Or, make a simple sketch of the project, noting the size, lengths, positions and order of removal for each nut, bolt, spacer, etc., as you remove them.

6. Another method that works very well is to draw an outline of the part being removed on a piece of substantial cardboard.

Then punch a hole in the appropriate place in the outline where each bolt is removed and insert the bolt and washer into the hole as they are removed. To hold nuts and washers in the position from which they are removed, poke a nail in the outline and set them over the nail.

Items not lending themselves to either of these methods can be secured with a piece of masking tape, or noted with a list or drawing of the item in its proper place and position.

If you need to identify another angle from which pieces are removed, you can score and fold the cardboard accordingly to signify the different positions in which the pieces are reinstalled.

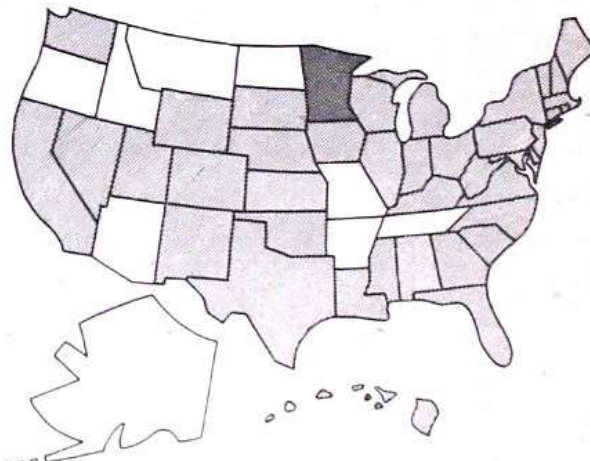

Now carefully set the board with the positioned pieces in a safe place so that nobody will inadvertently knock everything "galley west" in moving the job around!

There are several advantages to Method 6. First, you do not have to rely on your memory, if you must leave the job for any period of time, to know how many pieces you have to reassemble, what goes where and in which order.

The method also saves the time wasted trying to put a too-long bolt into a too-shallow hole, using too short a bolt in a position requiring a longer one, installing a component ahead of time and having to remove it again to put something else on that needed installation ahead of it, hunting for a spacer, washer or whatever and getting so disturbed that you can't think straight.

Finally, you avoid the danger of "finishing" the job with pieces left over!

Tire Industry Safety Council

NINE TO GO - Minnesota became the 41st state to ban bald tires with a one-sixteenth inch minimum tread depth law effective August 1, 1976. Forty states and the District of Columbia now require a minimum tread depth of 1/16th inch, by law or regulation. California requires 1/32 minimum. States shown in white have no official safeguards against bald tires.

Help Your Car Keep Its Cool

If your car's cooling system isn't working properly, the engine will run hot and destroy the engine parts. Sooner than later, the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association (APAA) warns, the engine will have to be replaced.

Why is the cooling system so important? A gallon of gasoline contains about 120,000 BTUs (British Thermal Units). About a third of these are absorbed through the entire cooling system.

Emergency Auto Kits Need Soap

A bar of soap as part of an emergency kit you carry around in your car? No car should be without one, says the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association.

The purpose of the soap, APAA's director of special services T.J. Miller explains, is to smear over small radiator leaks as a temporary seal.

The perfect auto emergency kit will contain a number of other items, the APAA spokesman says.

— A block of wood (to provide a hard base for the jack on soft ground).

— Brake fluid.

— Bulbs (especially spare taillight and signal light).

— Cloths.

— Drive belt.

— Electrician's tape.

— Fire extinguisher.

— First-aid kit.

— Flashlight.

— Fuel filter.

— Funnel.

— Fuses.

— Gas can (empty).

— Ignition key (spare).

— Knife.

— Penetrating oil.

— Radiator hose and

clamps.

— Sandpaper (or battery terminal cleaning tool).

— Screwdrivers.

— Shovel.

— Sparkplugs and sparkplug wrench.

— Tire gauge.

— Tire pump.

— Towing chain or rope.

— Water.

— Wheel chocks.

— Wire.

— Wrenches (various types and sizes).

your "kit" to fix whatever goes wrong with your car, but you'll have the satis-

knowledgeable person who comes to your aid.

a bar of soap might help you make a clean getaway.

"In short," says APAA's director of technical services, Scott Connor, "nearly one gallon out of every three that your vehicle uses is converted into heat that the cooling system must absorb."

Years ago, car owners were advised to drain the cooling system in the spring. Alcohol then was the most frequently used antifreeze ingredient and it boils at an even lower temperature than clear water.

Engines today carry heavier loads. They frequently drive air conditioning compressors, power accessories, automatic transmissions and higher generator loads. Sometimes they tow camping trailers.

These make the engines run hotter, Connor points out.

Some car owners also remove the engine's thermostat for the summer, he says.

"This misconception goes back to the days when car owners drained alcohol-based antifreezes.

"They removed the thermostat thinking that the engine would run a little cooler during the summer months.

"Instead, what it did was harm the engine by causing it to run longer below the temperature for which it was designed. So the engine wore out faster, used more fuel and emitted more pollutants through the tailpipe.

"In short, it never was a good idea."

Connor says the four key elements in a cool-running engine are the radiator, the radiator cap, the water pump and the tightness of the belt that drives the pump. "The coolant assures that all but the belt will be in shape to do their job more effectively.

"Actually, the cooling system works harder during the summer than during the winter.
